Fund-raiser, sheriff, aide are indicted

A federal grand jury at Springfield, Ill., Wednesday afternoon returned an indictment before U.S. Judge Waldo Ackerman charging Madison County Sheriff John Maeras and Maeras' former chief of field operations, John Cooper, with conspiracy to commit a pattern of racketeering activities.

Also indicted are Leland L. Stoller, 41, of Madison, Tenn., a suburb of Nashville, Tenn., and Leo Stoller Enterprises, Inc., also of Madison, Tenn., on similar charges.

Stoller Enterprises is a firm that promoted fund-raising activities for the now-defunct Madison County Deputies Association.

In addition, the indictment charges the defendants with "devising a scheme and artifice to defraud the citizens of Madison County and the Madison County Deputy Sheriffs' Association members and contributors to the deputy association, in violation of the mail fraud and wire fraud statutes."

Cooper and Maeras also were charged with submitting false statements to the Internal Revenue Service, and with obstruction of justice.

Maeras and Cooper were charged with 26 counts, and Stoller and Stoller Enterprises, Inc., were charged with 21 counts. If convicted, the defendants could receive maximum sentences of 20 years imprisonment on the racketeering conspiracy counts, five years imprisonment and $1,000 fine on the mail fraud and wire fraud counts, five years and $10,000 fine on the false statement counts, and five years and $5,000 fine on the obstruction of justice count.

Federal officials said that in addition, upon conviction of the racketeering account, the ownership of Leland L. Stoller of the Stoller Enterprises, Inc., is subject to forfeiture to the United States.

The indictment is the result of a continuing investigation conducted by the grand jury, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Internal Revenue Service, according to U.S. District Attorney Gerald Fines, who announced the indictments late Wednesday afternoon.

The case was presented to the grand jury by Fines, Assistant U.S. District Attorney Thomas W. Turner and John C. Carver.

As the jury reported the new indictment, Fines requested Judge Ackerman to dismiss an earlier indictment naming Maeras and Cooper on eight counts including making false statements, suborning perjury and obstruction of justice.

Judge Ackerman said he would take the motion under advisement.

It was on these counts that Maeras and Cooper were scheduled to go on trial Dec. 11. A decision may be made tomorrow regarding that trial.

Maeras' second four-year term as

Boyd named to board in Venice

Larry D. Boyd, a lifelong resident of Venice and a former top basketball player at Madison High School, was appointed to the Venice Board of Education Monday night to fill a vacancy left by the resignation of John C. Boushark Oct. 26.

Boushark, a member of the Venice board since April 1975, was re-elected to the board without opposition last April for an additional three-year term.

Boyd will fill the board post by appointment until April 14, 1979, when he will be required to run in the Venice School District election if he wishes to seek a further term.

The new board member's name was proposed in a motion by Wilbert Glasper and seconded by George W. Wade, with unanimous approval by the board.

Boyd was captain of the Madison High School varsity basketball team in his senior year, 1970-71, and was among the squad's top scorers, averaging 21 points a game.

He played on the Trojan varsity for two years.

He went on to Parkland College in Champaign and was captain of the college's Cobra varsity cage team in his sophomore year.

Boyd attained an associate degree in recreation from Parkland. He also attended George Williams College in Downer's Grove, Ill., as a recreation major.

Since returning to the Quad-Cities in late 1973, Boyd has been employed as assistant to Venice Superintendent of Parks Dale

Treatment fee hike voted 10-1

By HARRY BARNES

Press-Record Staff Writer

In an odd game of numbers that involved parliamentary rules and the number of aldermen present, the Granite City Council Tuesday night nearly failed to enact a vital ordinance amendment which more than doubles the fees for sanitary sewage treatment to permit the city to meet obligations of its debt service for construction of the secondary sewage treatment plant.

The ordinance was scheduled for action in Tuesday night's regular council meeting after the aldermen were told a week ago that the city is in the position of defaulting on a $4 million bond issue because revenues under the treatment fee schedule were insufficient to meet the cost of operating and funding the treatment plant.

While the aldermen eventually mustered 10 votes to place the fee measure on final passage, the minimum number of votes required for final passage action, it first appeared the ordinance might be delayed.

With three council members absent two of the aldermen present when the motion to place the bill on final passage was made by Ordinance Chairman Roy Polous, voted "no" in response to a roll-call vote. This left nine aldermen voting in favor, one short of the minimum required.

Voting "no" on the final passage motion were Aldermen Charles Douglas of Ward One and Warren Decatur of Ward Four. Voting "yes" were Aldermen Gerald Parnley, Margaret Nomm, Paul Bowler, Everett Morlen, Paulos, Sam Whitmer, Fred "Pat" Schuman, Glen Sprankle and Ronald Coleman.

Noting the shortage of one vote, Mayor Paul Schuler said, "I will vote yes... that is, if I am allowed to vote on a final passage motion." The mayor turned to City Attorney Lance Callis for an opinion as to the legality of his vote, but at that point Decatur spoke up.

"I would like to change my 'no' vote to 'yes,'" he said.

Mayor Schuler said that such a request must be directed to the council members who are authorized to approve or disapprove a change in a vote once it has been made.

Decatur repeated the request and the mayor called for a voice vote. The response was a scattering of yes and no votes, most of them apparently in jest, and one alderman called for a roll call.

At that point, however, the aldermen quit joking and approved Decatur's intent to change his vote on the final passage motion, giving the motion the required minimum of 10 votes.

That placed the ordinance amendment

IN SEARCH OF A BOOK. Cindy Metzger of Granite City uses the card catalog in Lovejoy Library at SIUE as she searches for a book for a class assignment. She is a senior at the University, majoring in nursing.

Postal Service has 2 types of holiday stamps

Since 1970, the U.S. Postal Service has printed two different types of Christmas stamps each year — a religious type and a secular type. This year is no exception, with the issue of the 15-cent "Hobby Horse" Christmas stamp and the 15-cent "Della Robbia."

Both are being printed in the regular stamp size rather than the standard commemorative size, in order to reduce printing costs.

The first stamp depicts a child on a hobby horse, with a Christmas tree in the background. The other features a Madonna and Child based on a terra cotta sculpture by the 15th Century Italian artist, Andrea Della Robbia.

According to Frank Oaks, a cataloger in Lovejoy Library at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and an avid stamp collector, Christmas stamps were first printed in the early '90s. Before that time, unsealed Christmas cards could be sent at a special rate which was less than the regular rate.

"I guess the post office found they were losing money through that process and decided to print a Christmas stamp at the regular rate," Oaks commented.

He explained that the public bought the Christmas stamp because it looked nice on Christmas cards and added a new dimension to the Christmas season.

Since then, the postal service has added religious stamps to the series of Christmas stamps, in order to offer a choice to the public.

Some of the stamps through the years have included, "Winter Scene," 1969; "Partridge in a Pear Tree" and "Adoration of the Shepherd," 1971; and "Santa Claus," 1972.

This year's "Hobby Horse" stamp was first issued Oct. 18 in Holly, Mich.

The "Della Robbia" stamp was issued the same day in Washington D.C., the city which holds the artist's sculpture in the National Gallery of Art.

Dr. Shaw on Cuba mission

President Kenneth A. Shaw of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is one of a delegation of 30 state college and university presidents invited on an educational mission to Cuba Dec. 2-10.

The invitation was extended to the American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU) by the Cuban Ministry of Superior Education to develop closer relationship between U.S. and Cuban institutions of higher learning.

The delegation will review with education officials developing trends in higher education in both countries, and the possibilities of developing cooperative international education programs. The group will also visit elementary and secondary schools and adult education centers.

Earl Laxson, SIUE vice-president and provost, will be acting president in Dr. Shaw's absence.

Expel girl, 16, in stabbing at Venice school

Close to two hours was spent in executive session Monday night by members of the Venice Board of Education, delaying the start of the regularly scheduled 7 p.m. meeting until 8:20 p.m.

The closed meeting, which was initiated at 6:30 p.m., concerned disciplinary action against two Venice students who were involved in a Nov. 15 incident at the school, when an 18-year-old male student was cut on the wrist with a butcher knife, allegedly used by a 16-year-old girl student.

After deliberation, the board decided to expel the girl for the rest of the current semester, which concludes Jan. 19, and to place her on probation for the remainder of the 1978-79 school year.

The youth, who was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital and released following the incident, already has served three days suspension. He was placed on probation for the remainder of the 1978-79 school term.

The board members learned the incident involved a family feuding situation and did not result from school related problems.

An investigation of the circumstances was undertaken prior to Monday's meeting.

New mental health code called model for nation

The Illinois Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities Code of 1978, called "the model for the nation" by Governor James R. Thompson, has been signed into law and takes effect on Jan. 1, 1979.

Senate Bill 250, sponsored by Sen. Dawn C. Netch and Rep. Elroy C. Sandquist Jr., both of Chicago, was approved by Gov. Thompson as written.

Along with the new code, the governor also approved legislation creating a Guardianship and Mental Health Advocacy Commission (Senate Bill 253) and setting up new court procedures and criteria for the appointment of guardians for disabled adults (SB 282).

Gov. Thompson applied an amendatory veto to SB 253, which contained comprehensive provisions to maintain the confidentiality of communications and records of mental health and developmental disabilities services.

The amendatory veto changes the bill's effective date to Jan. 1, 1979, bringing it into line with the other bills comprising the package.

SB 253 must be returned to the General Assembly this fall for concurrence with the governor's veto.

In signing the bills, the governor said, "The legislation approve is an example of the first work which government can accomplish."

"It is the product of thoughtful, earnest and promise and discussion. It respects human rights and human dignity. Its principles and ideas are sound."

The new Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities Code stresses patient rights and departmental and judicial accountability.

It contains a "Patient's Bill of Rights" which guarantees to residents of state-operated facilities and private institutions basic rights guaranteed every citizen.

Specifically, the new code prohibits the use of restraints and seclusion as punishment or discipline.

Either may only be used as a therapeutic measure or to prevent a patient from causing physical harm to himself or others.

The document gives every individual a right to mental treatment in Illinois and guarantees the right to treatment in the "least restrictive setting."

It also assures that the patient will be informed about the content of his treatment and allows him to consult his own medical records under most circumstances.

With certain qualifications, the patient has the right to refuse treatment or medication; he also has the guarantee of being heard by a higher authority.

According to IDMHDD

Director Robert A. DeVito, M.D., "Because a clinician must inform the patient 'what is to be done,' the new code can be considered 'less restrictive.' Still, it keeps medical judgments where they belong—with the clinician."

In spelling out the individual's right to treatment, the new code contains an appeals procedure should a mental health facility turn down a request for voluntary admission.

The new law requires that anyone denied admission be notified immediately and in writing of his right to appeal the decision.

If an appeal is made to the facility, the unit director or the facility superintendent must schedule a hearing before the facility utilization review committee within seven days.

At the hearing the facility assumes the burden of proving that the individual does not meet its health and developmental disabilities standards.

The committee is also required to assist the individual in obtaining proper treatment if it is available from another state facility or agency.

With the exception of minimum age (outpatient treatment at age 14, inpatient treatment at age 16) the admissions procedures remain much the same as they are now.

The new code also spells out the responsibility of the courts and the department in the delivery of mental health services.

According to Ivan Pavkovic, M.D., IDMHDD associate director, "Under the new code, the patient's involuntary stay in the hospital is the court's decision while the patient's treatment in the hospital is clinical business."

Under the new Mental Health Code, clients of the Illinois Department of Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities have a "Bill of Rights" which guarantees them that:

- They have the same legal and constitutional rights as any other individual;
- They are presumed to be competent unless otherwise determined in a court of law;
- They will receive adequate and humane care and services in the least restrictive environment;
- Resident of IDMHDD Mental Health and Developmental Centers shall be allowed private communication with friends, family, legal counsel or anyone the client chooses without worry of censorship or interference;
- Residents are allowed to own and use personal property and possess it IDMHDD grounds;
- A resident may use her or his personal funds according to their personal wishes;

- With their consent they may perform labor and shall be compensated in accordance to federal and state law;
- Clients have right to refuse treatment;
- Restraint may only be used as a therapeutic measure to prevent harm to the client or to others. Restraint may not be used for punishment or discipline;
- Seclusion also may be used for therapy or to prevent physical harm, and not as punishment or as a disciplinary measure;
- No client will be subjected to electroconvulsive therapy without his or her written and informed consent;
- Medical and dental care will be given in emergency cases without informed consent if deemed necessary by a physician or a licensed dentist.

After detailed debate, the new code was approved by both houses of the General Assembly and was sent to Gov. Thompson.

An early October meeting was scheduled by Dr. DeVito with all department facility, superintendents and regional administrators to orient them on the new code.

This was the beginning of a long-term educational process in which Dr. Pavkovic and Grischke will visit with departmental and community-based personnel.

At the bill-signing ceremony, Gov. Thompson said, "What we have here are words on paper, words written with the best of intent and concern for the dignity and rights of those less fortunate than those who wrote it."

"Now comes the implementation. If we fail in implementing the code, then the code fails."

Former Gov. Dan Walker said, "When I appointed the commission almost five years ago, I wanted Illinois to have the best, most modern mental health code in the nation. We have achieved that. Illinois can be proud of that result."

Two arrested near tavern

A man and a woman, both of Madison, were arrested during a disturbance in front of the Long Branch Tavern, 2105 Grand Ave., at 11:55 p.m. Monday and were charged with disorderly conduct.

Police alleged George Groves, 26, of 2100 Alton Ave., Madison, wrapped a shirt around his fist as though he was going to break a window and then started to strangle the woman.

Police interceded and arrested Groves, but alleged the woman, Anita Champion, 28, also of Madison, interfered with them and also was arrested. Each was released after posting $35 cash bond.

Hearing Dec. 6 on urgency of Venice school tax hike proposal

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

Voters in the financially depressed Venice School District are being urged to attend a public hearing at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 6, in the Venice High School library, to learn more about the urgent need for approval of the Dec. 16 tax increase referendum.

"To survive as we exist now, we must increase our tax base now," one member of the board said, speaking of the serious deficit in district funds.

Venice voters will be asked to approve a proposed increase of 75 cents per $100 assessed valuation in the educational fund and an increase of 20 cents per $100 assessed valuation in the building fund.

Both funds are at their maximum limits with the 1977 educational fund rate at $2.65 per $100 valuation and the 1977 building fund rate at 37.5 cents per $100 valuation.

The Dec. 6 public hearing will give citizens an opportunity to discuss the referendum with school district officials, it was announced by Board President Jack Tolliver at Monday night's special board meeting.

Those voting in the Dec. 16 referendum may cast ballots at two separate precincts. Precinct One will be located in the Venice High School Gymnasium, 740 Broadway.

Precinct Two will be in Eagle Park Acres Improvement Association building, 100 Hill St., Eagle Park.

Polls will be open from 12 noon until 7 p.m. Dec. 16.

Appointed Monday night as election judges at the polling places were:

Precinct One — Mrs. Lillian Mangiaracino, 1252 Oriole St., Venice; Mrs. Yvonne Mang, 1255 Oriole St., and Mrs. Yvonne Marr, 1028 Third St., Venice.

Precinct Two — Mrs. Bernice Jones, 313 Allen St., Mrs. Venus Gardner, 103 Allen St., and Mrs. Lee Elita Cotton, 219 Hill St.

A statement relating to the financial plight of the Venice School District and the reasons for presenting a tax referendum, asking for a total tax rate increase of 95 cents per $100 assessed valuation at this time was issued by the board Monday night.

The statement reads in part:

"As most citizens are aware, the school district's financial circumstances have been deteriorating for the past eight years, and have become critical over the past three years."

"Much has been written in the local press and in the school's quarterly newsletters to keep the public advised of the district's financial plight as the Board of Education struggled to continue operations without having to call for an increase in taxes.

"Now there is little choice," the board members stated. "In spite of our having cut back 20 teaching positions and three non-teaching positions in the past 10 years, the combination of rising costs and rapidly dropping assessed valuations cannot be overcome without additional funds."

"The last educational tax increase occurred in December 1975, after four unsuccessful tries over the previous 2½ years."

"In 1973, the board was advised by a Citizens Committee to seek the amount of increase that would be needed to bring the district out of the hole."

"At that time the amount was $1.20 and was the amount sought in June 1973. The referendum was defeated, as were the next three efforts at reduced rates, until finally a 60 cent increase was passed in December 1975."

"The following year, the district's assessed valuation declined by $2½ million, thus wiping out much of the increase which would have been derived from the successful 60 cents tax increase."

"Over the past four years alone, the Venice District has lost $11.1 million in assessed valuation."

"Thus it has been a combination of several things that has brought the district to its present crisis."

"The reasons mainly are — Declining assessed valuation from $39,591,595 to $29,751,543 in 16 years; the rising costs of operation; and failure to pass a needed tax increase of $1.20 in 1973."

"It is a very definite fact the school district as it presently exists, cannot survive much longer without an immediate increase in funds."

"The projected increase of 75 cents in the educational rate would bring that rate to $3.40 and the projected raise of 20 cents in the building fund rate would increase that rate to 57.5 cents."

"The following year, the district's sheriff will end Friday morning. He did not seek re-election.

Arrangement of the defendants is tentatively set for Dec. 8.

Attorneys for Maeras and Cooper appeared at a pre-trial hearing in Springfield Monday with a barrage of motions and requests for discovery.

The hearing required several hours and Federal Judge J. Waldo Ackerman took several minutes under advisement dealing with the possible self-incrimination privileges of the sheriff and Cooper, sources said.

The transcripts of a grand jury studying allegations about Maeras and Cooper in October and some Internal Revenue Service interviews dealing with them were turned over by the federal prosecutors to the defense attorneys and are likely to become exhibits during the upcoming trial.

There were no motions seeking to move the trial from Alton or to set back the starting date, but such motions could be filed with the court in the near future.

Maeras was represented by Belleville attorney Bruce Cook. Attorney H. Carl Runge of East St. Louis is representing Cooper.

It was indicated at the hearing that superseding indictments would be forthcoming, and that yesterday was the deadline. Word of the new indictments was given at about 3:30 p.m. yesterday as the federal grand jury completed its deliberations.

A Deputy Sheriff's Association financial record reproduced in the Sept. 7 Press-Record issue showed July 1974-June 1975 operations, with $105,227 available and only $9,529 in charitable contributions. The Stoler firm was listed as conducting the year's fund solicitation, and a $77,691 figure was listed.

It is the federal government's contention that a volunteer group raised large sums and that much of the money went to the company conducting the solicitation, with some funds also going to Maeras. Aid to charitable causes used up only a small percentage of the gross receipts, it is alleged.

The association disbanded after some of the younger deputies achieved operating control of it and called attention to the relatively small share of the income that was being diverted to the announced purposes of the group's yearly drives, dances and programs.

Some deputies said they were harassed by the sheriff and others after their efforts to direct a bigger share of the association income to worthy causes.

News notes

The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission yesterday adopted new natural gas price rules, clearing the way for price hikes next month.

Steel imports rose 5.3 percent last month from September, increasing the 10-month total to 17,700,000 tons and indicating that 1978 imports will top 1977's record 19.3 million tons.

Granite City police are to schedule lie-detector tests for a 21-year-old Niedringhaus Avenue woman who alleges she was forced to perform sex acts with a Lincoln Place man this week and for a man who has been questioned and released pending further investigation.

The woman told police at 8:05 a.m. Wednesday of the alleged assault and the man was questioned at 11:25 a.m. Wednesday and later released.

Fifteen senators in mid-term won't get the raises but the 40 elected Nov. 7 will receive them along with all representatives.

House Speaker William Redmond and other legislative leaders stressed the impact of inflation and dollar devaluation on representatives and senators, whom they said encounter many costs and (often have been getting only $1,000 or $13,000 a year in "take-home pay."

Projections showed the impact for the last half of the year 1978-June 1979 state fiscal year will be about $4,250,000.

Redmond said the decision was a difficult one for legislators, who are aware of taxpayers' dissatisfaction with governmental spending, but that the legislators felt they had no choice.

The governor's prompt veto from a Republican governors' conference in South Carolina allowed the 37-22 and 112-87 votes to be upheld the same day.

GC school retirement age is 70

By DONNA HARTWICK
Press-Record Staff Writer

To conform with the new federal standard, the Granite City Board of Education last night changed the retirement age for all employees from 65 to 70.

Extensions of one or two years beyond 65 had been common in the school system in past years, but during the 1970s the retirement cutoff had been 65, except in rare cases where no replacement was available.

Because the Illinois teacher tenure law is effective until age 65, it is uncertain how tenure will be applied to school employees here in the 66-70 age range.

The age change affects teachers and all other employees.

In addition, the board last night adopted policies relating to non-certificated, non-supervisory staff members, including cafeteria, custodial, secretarial and craft employees.

son, the Rev. Michael Collins of Raytown, Mo., one grandchild, his mother, Mrs. Mary Collins, one brother, Frank Collins, and one sister, Alta Brewer, all of Raytown, Mo.

Mr. Collins had many relatives and friends in the Granite City area. His son officiated at the funeral.

and teaching assistants. Campus monitors were added to the policy statements.

Date of employment was changed to the first day of work after filing medical and other reports, instead of the date of School Board hiring action.

As in the past, those reaching mandatory retirement age may continue until the end of that fiscal year in June, and the administration may recommend an extension beyond 70 if no adequate replacement can be found.

In other board action last night, the members agreed to implement a self-insured health program for employees hospital-medical costs up to $896,561 a year, with the Great West Life Assurance Co. insuring the program beyond that cost level.

Effective for the 1979 calendar year, the self-insurance is expected to save City schools $30,000 or more yearly, Supt. B. J. Davis estimated.

$3,500 damage at Wagon Wheel

Fire, which started in the kitchen, caused an estimated $3,500 damage at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant, 3004 Edwardswood Road, at 8:40 a.m. Tuesday.

Accumulated grease around an exhaust fan caught on fire and the fire quickly spread in the kitchen, firemen were told. Damage was estimated at $1,500 to the building and $2,000 to its contents.

Granite City firemen were on the scene 40 minutes.

Override makes Illinois legislators highest paid

Illinois now has the highest-paid state legislators.

Exceeding three-fifths voting margins to override a veto by Governor James R. Thompson, the Illinois House and Senate yesterday afternoon adopted $8,000 annual raises for legislators, judges and constitutional officers.

The governor's yearly salary will rise from $50,000 to $58,000, and legislators' basic pay will climb from $20,000 to $28,000.

The determination that Illinois' General Assembly members will become the highest paid in the U.S. takes into account salary, allowances and fringe benefits. The lawmakers voted themselves a five-cent hike in travel pay but left unchanged the $36 daily allowance for meals and lodging while in session.

An effective date of Jan. 10 was set for legislators' new pay, linked to the convening of the next two-year Assembly session.

House Speaker William Redmond and other legislative leaders stressed the impact of inflation and dollar devaluation on representatives and senators, whom they said encounter many costs and (often have been getting only $1,000 or $13,000 a year in "take-home pay."

Bull resigns

Another Madison County sheriff deputy no longer is a member of that department. In exchange for dismissal of a scheduled trial, Larry Bull, 29, Collinsville, resigned Monday during the final week of the second four-year John Maeras administration.

Calhoun County Circuit Judge Alfred Pezman, presiding Monday in a circuit courtroom at the Madison County Courthouse, Edwardsville, dismissed a charge of receiving stolen property on the recommendation of Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott.

With the jury divided 11-1 in favor of conviction, Bull's initial trial resulted in a mistrial early this year. Retrial had been set for this week.

Stressing that "he hasn't been convicted of anything," said Attorney General William J. Scott, Bull will seek back pay for the period until the resignation Monday, dating from Bull's suspension upon being indicted in September 1977.

Some of those indicted for television and radio thefts from Bert's TV had alleged that Bull bought part of the loot.

Donald McKay of the state attorney general's staff, serving as special prosecutor, commented on the dropping of the trial that "the evidence hasn't improved with age."

"He offered to resign his commission as a deputy sheriff, and it was a case of a bird in the hand being worth two in the bush."

Glitch said, "There were no deals. They evaluated it and decided it wasn't worth going after. The only thing he did was resign. Frankly, that was the best thing for him."

Bull was said to have turned in a television set to the sheriff's department after learning it was "hot." He was unaware it had been stolen when he obtained it, authorities were told.

A comprehensive overview of the many and varied financial aid sources available to students will be discussed, including aid not only for schooling at colleges and universities but also vocational-technical schools, according to Sonya Atkinson, counselor on the South High campus.

To assist parents in the preparation of the forms which usually are required when applying for financial aid, sample financial need analysis forms will be distributed to the parents and will be explained.

Also during the program, specific information concerning particular scholarships and grants will be discussed.

Tree of Lights fund—$5,400

Contributions to the Salvation Army's Tree of Lights campaign to raise funds to help area needy families at Christmas time stands today at $5,400.

Captain Elmer Trapp, local Salvation Army commander, said each $25 gift dedicates a light on the symbolic trees which are located in Civic Park, 20th Street and Niedringhaus Avenue, and in front of Granite City Glass Co., 3752 Nameoki Road.

The donations are being recorded this season on thermometer style trees that are revised as sufficient contributions are received.

A goal of $25,000 has been set this Christmas to aid those in need.

Volunteer bellringers also are being sought by the Salvation Army to help raise funds for the holiday program by standing at the time honored "kettles" on street corners and shopping centers.

Capt. Trapp said organizations and individuals willing to ring the bells are urged to contact him or the office secretary, at 451-7987, for further information.

Only four groups have volunteered their services for the Christmas bellringing project so far, he said. More than 10 organizations were involved last year.

The officer expressed appreciation to the 91 persons who attended the kickoff luncheon for the Tree of Lights campaign, sponsored by the Granite City Rotary Club.

The election of officers was conducted by Strang, co-chairman of the council nominating committee.

The installation of officers was handled by G. Rollin Henn, chairman of the nominating committee and Strang.

Sixty persons representing the 73 sponsoring institutions that use the program of the BSA attended the meeting.

"This year of 1978 was the 58th year in which the Cahokia Mound Council has promoted and fostered conditions that have created a desire among youth to be Scouts. In the past 58 years we feel that we have excelled in most instances in that basic aim," Schermer said.

"Our challenging slogan of, 'Wonderful World of Scouting - Invitation to Adventure,' has brought us to renewed effort to provide Scouting for greater numbers of youth and adult members.

"We have been successful in that our camping experience has maintained its high plan, more training opportunities for Scouts has been offered, and that the total youth participation in the year's schedule of activities has been at an all-time record. 'Wonderful World of Scouting - Passport to Adventure,' has stimulated us to do our very best in new endeavors, and the development of already established program features.

"Now, and it appears so evident for the future, the acceleration in social changes, and new competitive forces has increased the significance of our council's mandate to serve our communities and country, through service to our youth. In the Cahokia Mound Council, we must set our sights high. We need to continue our efforts to provide adequate commissioner service for units.

"A decreasing number of available youth for Cub Scouts and Scouts for membership means that we must double our efforts to find new chartered partners, and strengthen our relationships with our present partners, in order to reach a higher density of service.

"We must do more, to reach more of our Explorer age youth, with an increased awareness of this area of service to an expanding availability.

"Youth want and need Scouting. Our challenge is to see that they get Scouting, and all that it stands for," Schermer emphasized.

Offenders will be a valuable resource book, not only to students, but to those working in law enforcement, probation and parole."

Emphasis has been placed on the role of the court and on programs which have been effectively tested and demonstrated. Dr. Vedder, according to Strang, is "a practical man who believes in using down-to-earth approaches to problems, not merely theories."

"Vedder is a realist," Strang stressed.

"The new book will be a significant reference book for those who want to know more about current findings in this field. And it will be a real guidebook for those seeking practical solutions to problems."

Strang is a past president of the Madison-Venue Rotary club, and a former vice-president for three years of the Cahokia Mound Boy Scout Council. He currently is a member of the Boy Scout Council executive board and chairman of the council's Explorer committee.

He organized Explorer Post 10-4, sponsored by the Madison Police Unit, and it has gained national recognition on numerous occasions.

He also organized Post 10-33, sponsored by the Granite City Police Department, in addition to assisting in the organization of 15 other post in six states.

He is active in church work and the United Way, and is a member of Amvets Post 204 of Madison.

Strang is holder of the Silver Beaver, highest award a local Boy Scout council can bestow on a volunteer.

He is also a member of the Madison Branch, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Prior to joining the Press-Record staff, he was personnel director for the Jewish Center for the Aged in St. Louis.

Strang is a social worker by training and has maintained his certification by the state of Illinois.

While working as a youth counselor for the Illinois Youth Commission for eight years, he was a frequent lecturer at Northern Illinois University on criminology and juvenile delinquency.

Strang attended Harris Grade School, Madison High School, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and Northern Illinois University.

While working for the Boy Scouts of America in his early 20s, he worked for a Michigan police department in covert anti-vice activities.

As a Boy Scout executive, he taught at the National Camping School and directed the Gerber Scout Reservation for five summers, receiving numerous recognitions from the BSA and the American Camping Association.

His associations also include the Illinois Press Association, the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, the American Correctional Association and the John Howard Association.

The new schedule of rates based on water usage is computed in three categories—cost of treatment (plant operation), sewer usage and billing cost, and debt service.

Rates for residential users, for each 100 cubic feet of water used, are:

For the first 2,100 cubic feet, .334 cents for treatment, .125 for sewer and billing, .16 for debt service, 62 total.

Next 36,900 cu. ft., .334 - .125 - .16 - .62.

Next 39,000 cu. ft., .334 - .125 - .14 - .60.

Over 78,000 cu. ft., .334 - .125 - .12 - .58.

Flat rate, $7.01 - $2.63 - $3.36 - $13.00.

U.S. Army Installation, all quantities, .215 - .005 - .00 - .22.

Industrial and all others: First 2,100 cu. ft., .334 - .005 - .280 - .619.

Next 162,000 cu. ft., .334 - .005 - .190 - .529.

Next 1,098,000 cu. ft., .334 - .005 - .140 - .479.

Over 1,500,000 cu. ft., .34 - .005 - .090 - .429.

Flat rate, $7.01 - $1.11 - $5.88 - $13.00.

The amendment further provides:

"In order that the rates and charges may be justly and equitably adjusted to the service rendered to industrial users, the city of Granite City shall base its charges not only on the volume, but also on the strength and character of industrial sewage and wastes which it is required to treat and dispose of."

"The city of Granite City shall require the owner or other industrial user to determine the strength and content of all sewage and wastes discharged, either directly or indirectly, into the sanitary sewage system, in such manner and by such method as the city may deem practicable in the light of the conditions and attending circumstances of the case, in order to determine the proper charge."

"The owner or other industrial user shall furnish a central sampling point available to the city at all times."

"Normal domestic waste strength should not exceed a biochemical oxygen demand of 200 parts per million parts of fluid or suspended solids in excess of 250 parts per million parts of fluid."

"Additional charges for treating industrial waste, that is stronger than normal domestic waste, shall be made."

Illinois quilt block contest

Sponsored by the Folklore Archive at SIUE, the "Illinois Block Contest" is open to all residents of Illinois or persons who have close affiliation with the state.

Designing patchwork quilt patterns was one of the first ways that women were able to express creative abilities, according to John Oldani, coordinator of the Folklore Archive and associate professor of English language and literature.

It was a process by which the seamstresses took tiny scraps of material discarded from their dressmaking chores and created functional articles that were also works of art.

"Patchwork quilting is peculiarly an American handicraft. Other countries have had covers that serve the same purpose as patchwork quilts, but it is only here that pieces of material have been sewn together to make the outer covering," Oldani said.

The English professor notes that women worked on their quilts while making their way westward across the country in covered wagons.

"Entries taken from diaries kept by the women have indicated that the trip would have been unbearable if it hadn't been for the quilts," Oldani said. "It helped pass the time."

Ideas for many of the designs came from viewing nature along the way. For example, the famous "bear's paw" pattern (known as the "bear's claw" in some parts of the country) was created after a young lady's fiancé was treed by a bear.

Making of quilts by hand declined for a number of years, but interest in the craft has been renewed during the past five or six years. Today, men, as well as women, are interested in quilt needlework, Oldani relates.

For the first annual quilt show held at SIUE two years ago, 218 quilts were on display. Last year, there were 426 quilts.

The entry for this year's quilt block contest must be an unquilted, 12-inch square block — using pieced, appliqued, embroidered or any combination of quilting forms and techniques.

The blocks may be an original design or an interpretation of an existing pattern.

The name of the block must incorporate the word "Illinois" or other words usually associated with the state.

Entries will be judged on originality, merit of design, choice of colors, craftsmanship and creative symbolism of the Illinois theme.

All entries must be received, or postmarked, not later than March 1, 1979. First prize is $100. Other meritorious entries will be designated as "honorable mentions."

The blocks become the property of the archive and will be on display at the third annual quilt exhibit at the university in April. Oldani said the winning block will be designated the Illinois quilt block and will be made available to interested persons.

Entries may be submitted to John L. Oldani, Quilt Block Contest, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, Box 43, Edwardsville, Ill. 62026. Additional information may be obtained by telephoning him at 692-3427.

Boy, 10, caught in break-in Granite City juvenile authorities say they do not plan to prosecute a 10-year-old boy who broke into Third Baptist Church, 28th Street and Grand Avenue, Monday.

A church member said she was in the church kitchen when she heard glass breaking and she went to the office to call police.

Officers found a basement driver's side window was pried open. Taken were an 80 CB radio, a $170 sideband CB radio and $300 worth of tape recordings. The in-dash stereo also was damaged in an unsuccessful attempt to remove it.

He was turned over to juvenile authorities who released him to his parents after reprimanding him. No juvenile court action is anticipated, due to the boy's age, but the parents may be asked to make restitution to the church for the broken window.

He ran out a door and police

No-bid truck for town roads

Nameoki Township has purchased a $14,990 dump truck and plans to purchase an $800 electric typewriter without competitive bidding, it was disclosed at Monday night's Nameoki Town Board of Trustees meeting.

Township Highway Commissioner Frank Meehlic told the board he is purchasing the dump truck under a lease-purchase agreement with Bo Beckman Ford of Collinsville. He said he has an opinion from Attorney Carl Runge that the truck is not necessary, since he is leasing the vehicle until it is paid for.

Meehlic was disappointed in the last round of bidding for a truck two months ago when an error in the specifications forced him to accept a low bid of $12,277 for a 1978 International Harvester dump truck from a St. Louis dealership, rather than being able to purchase a 1979 model from a Collinsville dealership for a bid only $296 higher.

The truck being lease-purchased from Bo Beckman Ford is the third new truck Meehlic has purchased in the last few months. Bids were taken on the first two County regulations require that all purchases over $2,500 be put out for bids, when practical.

The truck being lease-purchased from Bo Beckman Ford is the third new truck Meehlic has purchased in the last few months. Bids were taken on the first two County regulations require that all purchases over $2,500 be put out for bids, when practical.

He needed another truck immediately for the environmental cleanup program, which has been behind schedule since one of the trucks was wrecked last month.

He said the truck has been received and put to use, and the trash and limb pickup program is now on its regular schedule.

Meehlic has a legal opinion in which Runge indicates he may lease a truck to fulfill an emergency situation, but then should seek bids as soon as possible.

Meehlic said he intends to seek bids after Jan. 1, using the same specifications as the truck he is leasing, and will halt the lease if a lower purchase price is achieved.

The truck purchase did not require the approval of the township's Board of Trustees, but the board must approve the $415 monthly payments to Beckman.

The town board did give authority Monday night to Supervisor Harold Davis to purchase a new IBM electric typewriter for $800 from the dealership he recommended, although township rules require bidding for any purchase over $500.

Davis said he wanted a unit identical to those now in use in the township office and did not feel bidding was necessary, because he is purchasing the unit from an IBM dealer.

Township Attorney Irvin C. Slate Jr. was asked if the typewriter could be purchased without bidding and said he felt Davis could be given that authority.

Trustee W. Lee Adams gave a report on recent township officials, convention in Peoria and answered criticism that too many officials were sent with all expenses paid.

He said the convention was set up as a seminar, with separate sessions for supervisors, clerks, collectors, assessors, trustees and other officials being conducted simultaneously, so a few officials could not have learned what was necessary for each office holder to know.

The board agreed that a third letter should be sent to township residents who have bills outstanding with the Granite City ambulance service, notifying them they must pay the bills immediately, or they will be turned over to a collection agency.

It was reported that more than 30 requests have been received for Christmas baskets for the needy, but there have been few donations from township residents and businesses.

Anyone willing to donate canned goods, fruits or cash may call the township at 931-1230 or leave the items during business hours at the township hall, 4225 Highway 162. Cash is needed to purchase hams or meat for the baskets.

Energy answers promised

Area energy users can obtain information on aspects of the energy bill recently passed by Congress by attending an "energy outlook" public meeting in Belleville Monday, Dec. 4, at Augustine's Restaurant, 1200 Centerville Ave., Belleville, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Retiring State Rep. Joe E. Luocco (D-Edwardsville), chairman of the Illinois Energy Resources Commission, said "Vital questions will be answered, such as what will happen to a company if its energy supply is curtailed? What if energy prices increase 20 percent? Will an energy user be subjected to fines of hundreds of thousands of dollars for failure to comply with the new regulations?"

Luocco, who will chair the meeting, said Mary O'Halloran, chairman of the Illinois Department of Energy Region VII, "will explain ramifications of the bill which will bear on the everyday lives and pocketbooks of industrial and residential energy users."

National Energy Act areas to be discussed at the energy outlook meeting include: natural gas—prices will rise on new natural gas an average of 10 percent annually until 1985, when government controls are to end.

Energy taxes—a tax on "gas-guzzling" autos and tax credits for home insulation; conservation—new energy efficiency standards will be established.

Coal conversion—industries and power plants will be encouraged to switch from oil and natural gas to coal; and utility pricing—state utility rate-makers will be required to find ways to lower rates to residential consumers who use power in off-peak hours.

Luocco said businessmen and citizens who need up-to-the-minute information on developments in the energy field should attend the Belleville meeting. He added that energy suppliers will report on prospects for area energy supplies this winter.

Meeting sponsors include the U.S. Department of Energy, the Illinois Institute of Natural Resources, the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce and the

St. Paul, Lubber edge Venice in opener 68-63

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

VENICE — Venice Coach Ken Perkins was a bit dismayed after his squad's 68-63 season-opening loss to St. Paul of Highland here Tuesday night. He said something about being tired of making excuses.

But take away one word from the St. Paul vocabulary and Perkins would've been drinking victory champagne instead of suffering defeat.

Luber. Dennis Luber. The 65 Viking center scored 31 points — 24 on field goals — enroute to leading the Vikings to their first victory of the season. They lost to Madison 69-59 last Wednesday in the season-opener for both teams.

Better make that two words to take out of the St. Paul vocabulary. The other one is foul.

The Vikes made good on 26 free throws compared to just seven for the Red Devils.

"The fouls and turnovers are what killed us," said Perkins. "We just didn't show as much poise out there as I know we have."

"We knew after seeing their game with Madison that they'd be going to Luber a lot," he said. "But I thought he (Luber) and Moss (guard Randy Moss) got away with a lot of rough play out there."

"Every time Moss comes around the corner to the baseline, he sticks out his arm to shove off with when he's got the ball so he can go up for a shot. Luber tries to stiff-arm too."

But the Venice mentor wasn't making sour grapes. He said he blamed himself and the team's inability to play together as a team down the stretch for not making up the deficit.

The Red Devils never found themselves trailing by more than seven points the entire game and closed to within one point as late as the fourth quarter. But when the going got tough, the whistles started sounding.

"We tended to play alley ball out there late in the game," said Perkins. "We know we've got to play together as a team, but I guess when the action is hot and there's a large crowd (there weren't very many empty seats in the gym), you could tend to do things you shouldn't."

Actually, the last time Venice had the lead in the game was with 2:28 left in the first half. At that point, forward Ricky Jones made a steal for a St. Paul pass and drove in for a layup that put the Devils ahead 25-24.

But the Vikings started going to Luber and Moss and had themselves a 29-25 lead at halftime.

One factor that helped St. Paul get that four-point half-time lead was that starting guard Reggie Mathis and Jones got into early foul trouble. They

'I said to hold them to 60 ...'

VENICE — Ken Perkins, head basketball coach at Venice High School had a message for his team here Tuesday night before the Red Devils' game with St. Paul of Highland. "I told them that if we held St. Paul to 60 points, we'd win the game," said Perkins. "We knew that if we could hold them to that, we could do it."

Then at halftime, Perkins looked at the scoreboard and saw his team was behind 29-

25. Right on schedule. "I told them that it was all right, we could make up the deficit if we could also hold them to 31 points or less in the second half," said Perkins.

Venice did its part of the plan offensively. The Red Devils scored 63 points. Enough to win the game if St. Paul was held to 60.

The only trouble was the Vikings weren't held to 60. They scored 68. Perkins was right.

watched most of the second quarter from the bench. "Everything we do out there is geared to them," said Perkins. "Without Jones, we really don't have enough size to throw over the full-court press."

Perkins said his club, which will depend greatly on its speed this season, wanted to run on St. Paul, but couldn't get the break started. "We couldn't get the ball over Luber," said Perkins. "He stayed back just long enough after a basket to foul us up."

Venice made up for its halftime deficit early in the third quarter when Mathis almost single-handedly made a run at the Vikes.

With just over two minutes gone by, Mathis hit his third straight field goal from the left side about 10 feet out to knot the score at 31. Then Moss went to work.

The flashy little (5-10) Viking guard put on a show of his own and scored the next nine St.

Paul points as they took a 40-33 lead with 2:43 remaining in the third quarter.

"Moss is tough, no doubt about it," said Perkins. "But I honestly don't feel that he or his team are five points better than us. But I guess they were tonight."

Late in the game, St. Paul had several chances to make the whole affair look like a cakewalk ... but Venice wouldn't allow it.

With 4:05 left in the game, Luber hit both ends of a one-and-one situation after being fouled by Venice's Donald Gardner. That made the score 62-61.

But the Red Devils came up with two quick baskets to pull to within 62-55. Then the Vikings stole the ball as Venice was trying to bring it down the floor and had a chance to blow the thing wide open. But when St. Paul forward John Stocklin missed a layup, Luber's slam-dunk on the rebound was disallowed, the referee saying that Luber was hanging on the rim when the ball was still above it.

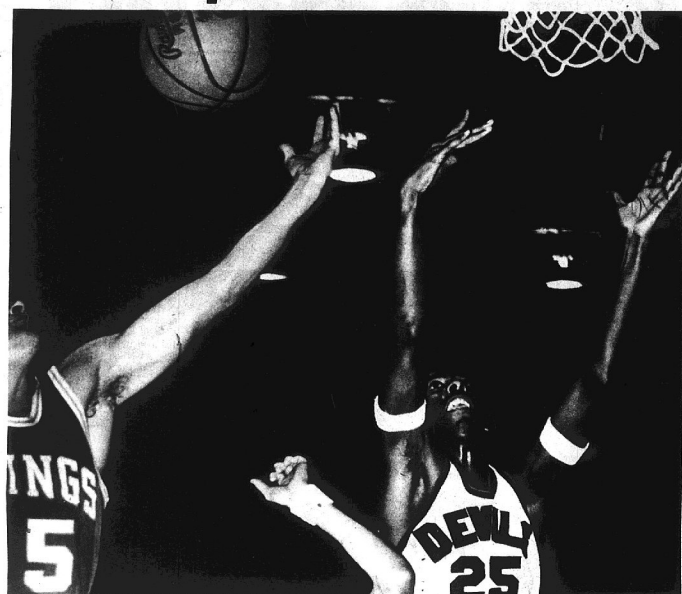

Then Terry Arnold hit from the top of the key for Venice to narrow the deficit to 62-57. Luber-time.

The Highland scoring ace hit a shot from 10 feet out at the 1:10 mark and then again a little over 30 seconds later to make the margin 66-57.

A 15-footer by Mathis and a layup by Arnold narrowed the gap back to five, but Moss hit both ends of a one-and-one chance with less than 10 seconds remaining to ice the victory away. James Mathis hit from the key for Venice as the game ended.

"We've got nothing to hang our heads on," said Perkins.

TERRY ARNOLD of Venice (right) seems to be asking "where'd the ball go?" in this picture as St. Paul-Highland guard Randy Moss tips away the rebound from the Red Devil. The Vikings defeated Venice 68-63 Tuesday to ruin the Devils' home opener.

MADISON — After about the middle of the third quarter of Tuesday night's basketball game between Madison and St. Dominic-O'Fallon, the only suspense left was wondering if Madison would reach the 100 point mark.

Although they fell just short in that effort, the Trojans easily won 95-55, completely dominating St. Dominic's Crusaders.

"They (St. Dominic) just got tired," explained Trojan Coach Larry Graham. "They aren't that bad of a ball club. You just have to give up something when you're ten points down."

ST. DOMINIC looked like two different teams in the two halves going into the second half Madison held only a two point margin at 32-31. But going into the second half it was all Trojans.

The brand of pressure defense that Madison plays worked to perfection against the Crusaders. Madison's defenders' constant harassment of the St. Dominic team finally wore down the Crusaders, and Madison had a field day.

THE DIFFERENCE in the two halves may have been the play of Eric Stanley. "We finally got our big man to play some ball," said Graham. "In the first half it looked like we had only four men on defense. But when Eric started to play we turned it around."

When the Trojans shifted into high gear they were practically unstoppable. At one point in the fourth quarter the Trojans scored five baskets in a row before St. Dominic could put a single shot in. The first three of Herzing has stated many times, "That if the corporations are making profits, the workers are entitled to some of the profits, so that they may provide a decent life for themselves and their families. After all if it wasn't for the working people getting out production for the corporations, there would be no profits. The working people give the sweat from their brow, the blood from their injuries and some even gave their lives. They are entitled to a decent wage on their paycheck in order that they may cope with the high cost of living today."

GC paramedics in clinical training

Seven emergency medical technicians of the Granite City Ambulance Service have completed classroom work for training as paramedics and are involved in clinical training at the Wood River Township Hospital, it was reported Wednesday.

Their present training requires a minimum of eight hours per week participation in the hospital paramedic program, with those hours worked during their off time from their regular jobs as EMTs serving on Granite City ambulances.

The schedule will continue until the first week in February when the men, all of whom passed their written examinations, expect to be certified by the state as paramedics and are expected to form the nucleus of a paramedic program in Granite City.

The seven men now are in training under direction of Patty Miller, director of the paramedic program at the Wood River Township Hospital, and Dr. Judy Paterson, physician in charge of paramedic training, according to Art Asadorian, one of those in training.

The others taking the training are Jim Monaghan, Matthew Gasparovic, Jon Langenstein, Michael Kelly, Dave Bell and Dan Worthen. Asadorian said Wednesday that Gov. James Thompson has proclaimed Dec. 1 as Paramedic Day in Illinois. The proclamation urges all citizens to recognize the dedication of paramedics to saving lives and decreasing mortality, noting there now are 2,000 trained paramedics in the state, using 277 vehicles in 24 active programs.

Miss Howies said, however, that the original petitions asking the counts were voided because they had been filed too early. Under state election law, she explained, petitions for discovery counts may not be made until after the State Board of Elections certifies official voting results when a multi-county district office is involved. The 56th district is made up of parts of Madison and St. Clair Counties.

She said new petitions may be filed after the official certification is received from the state.

The tabulation of ballot cards in the precincts had been expected to begin early this week.

Lessons from the champion

The reason Jimmy Connors is the biggest draw in tennis is because he is the most exciting to watch.

And the reason he's so exciting is because he's an explosive, clever and steady player. He is a brilliant strategist.

Connors learned this sophisticated game from Pancho Segura, tennis' premier analyst and tactician.

Segura spent thousands of hours with Jimmy, most of which were devoted to memorizing the fundamentals of good stroke production. As a result, Connors' groundstrokes are flawless.

They're the best because they are technically sound. He gets the racket back early, has good footwork, steps forward with every shot, and has the longest strokes in tennis.

As good as Connors is at hitting the tennis ball, he is a genius when it comes to playing the game.

Although he doesn't have a spectacular serve, his approach to serving is something we can all learn from.

Instead of trying to finish the point with the serve, Jimmy is satisfied just to start it. As a result, he gets a high percentage of first serves in, and he almost never double faults.

Once the point is in play, Connors is awesome. His groundstrokes are always deep, most landing within six feet from the baseline. A great majority of his mistakes are long; he rarely lets the net beat him.

As a result of these deep, forcing, well-produced groundstrokes, Jimmy gets more than his share of shallow, weak returns to take advantage of.

And he does. His approach shots are usually hit deep and to a corner. They are placed so well that he makes volleying look easy.

He accomplishes this by moving forward and intercepting the volley early, closer to the net, which gives him a better angle to put the ball away.

As good as he is in producing his groundstrokes and placing his shots, probably the best thing Jimmy does is hustle after the ball. He never quits.

Next time he's on TV watch and learn a few lessons.

Haunted by a sense of time

HOLLYWOOD — Time holds a special fascination for Al Stewart.

It shows up in the singer-composer's love for fine, aged wines — the ones that are rich in years.

"When you drink wine it conjures up the whole atmosphere of the period it was made," said Stewart.

But the sense of time also haunts Stewart's songs. Like his latest "Time Passages" album for Arista, which has these reflective lyrics:

"Well I'm not the kind to live in the past
The years run too short and the days too fast
The things you lean on are the things that don't last."

Stewart writes with intellectual bite, as befits a longtime fan of Bob Dylan. Born in Scotland and a professional musician at 17, Dylan's brooding, savage lyrics of the Sixties had a major impact on the young Al Stewart who was playing folk clubs in England at the time.

MARILYN AND BILLY (Columbia) — Two are definitely better than one when it comes to Marilyn McCoo and Billy Davis Jr. Marilyn and Billy blend first-rate material and high-powered arrangements into some smoking rhythm and blues. They once were an integral part of the 5th Dimension before moving on. ROY ACUFF — Greatest Hits (Elektra-Asylum) — An outstanding roundup of some of Roy's finest country songs, including "Wash Cannonball," "Blue Eyes Crying in the Rain," "The Great Speckled Bird," "Pins and Needles," and "Back in the Country." This is a two-record set of Acuff classics. FUNKADELIC (Warner Bros.) — George Clinton presides over a wild and fun-filled tour of the country of Funkadelicia wherein the main citizens reside in the capital of Maggotropolis. It is, firmly, one nation under a groove. Clinton and the original Parliament gang dreamed all this up while "singing, smoking and straightening hair" at a barbershop in Plainfield, N.J.

NO LINTOS

Mark Hamill — He wants to believe in UFOs

Would you expect the star of "Star Wars" to believe in UFOs? MARK HAMILL confesses, "Well, after 'Star Wars,' I suppose I should. I mean, I hope they are for real. People want to believe so much, but they don't really know because the government keeps a lid on things like that. Who knows? I'm confused myself. Maybe I've been reading too many 'Superman' comics!"

How in the world DICK CLARK does it, I'll never know, but the man has more energy than 50 people. He doesn't stop, and now he's so excited about the ratings his Variety Show on NBC is getting, he's walking on air. He admits, "I never take time out for lunch, it's a waste of time and I can't see wasting time for anything. That's a crime as far as I'm concerned." The man looks great and he deserves a long run for his latest venture.

Army seeking skilled linguists

The U.S. Army is seeking former soldiers trained in foreign languages as interpreters and voice interceptors to return to their Army skills.

Qualified individuals without prior Army service who are capable in the needed foreign languages are also sought.

The most-needed languages are Russian, Czech, Syrian Arabic, Chinese and Korean. Young people who are qualified in other languages may contact their local Army recruiter to find out if their skills are in demand.

In some cases, former soldiers will be able to switch from one of the two language skills to the other, or elect to train in a different language.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR DEAR DAD RALPH W. GRIGGS NOVEMBER 29, 1977

It hardly seems true, one year has gone by, and our hearts haven't healed. Too often we still cry. You were beckoned so suddenly to Jesus' side that we couldn't accept the fact that you had died. We don't see God's purpose in taking you away, but we live with the promise we will see you again someday.

SADLY MISSED BY
Daughters Shirley (Griggs) Williams, Patty Griggs, and all who loved him.

Home Safety topic of Homemakers meeting

Assistant Fire Chief George Smolich spoke on Home Safety at a district meeting of the Southwest District Madison County Homemakers Extension Association held at Hope Lutheran Church.

He talked about home safety and stressed everyone should have a smoke detector battery operated in their home, not a fire detector.

Mrs. Helen Miller, chairman, presided at the business meeting, and Jan Perkins, extension adviser and associate home economist, introduced Caroline Kerns, head of CHEP programs. She works with low income families in the Quad-City and Alton areas.

The speaker noted there are eight program assistants and they work with 400 families in the above mentioned areas. She defined the assistance and work involved in the project.

Madison County annual achievement meeting will be held in Highland, on April 25, 1979, and Grace Peterson will have the program on "Music Around the World." It was announced. The southwest district is made up of the Trio, Granite City and Isabel Bever Unit in Granite City, and Madison-Venice Unit and the Creative Women Unit and they will serve as hostesses at the session.

Attending the event were 45 members and the traveling cup went to the Madison-Venice Unit for the largest attendance.

Recreation chairman of each group is to make plans for the May district meeting and the cultural arts chairman of each group is to make decorations for the Madison County annual achievement meeting in Highland. Delores Rabey of Trio Unit was chosen to serve as chairman of the committee.

After the session adjourned Mrs. Rabey gave an interesting

Pi Eta plans yule projects

Holiday projects and events were the main topic of discussion at a meeting of Pi Eta Chapter, of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, held in the home of Mrs. Wanda Graham, chapter president, last week.

Committee reports included the announcement of a ways and means project of selling cheese and sausage for the holiday season and a service program led by Betty Beck on providing a Christmas basket for a needy family and a nursing home event.

A review of the sorority city council meeting was given by Mrs. Donna Yehling. Mrs. Graham added a Christmas decoration auction will be held at the Dec. 11 meeting and the December social will be a yule party on Dec. 20th at LaRocca's Restaurant.

In lieu of a program a surprise baby shower was held for Mrs. Kathy Welch who welcomed a son on Oct. 24. He has been named James Thomas.

The group also attended a dinner meeting on Wednesday evening at the Spaghetti Factory in St. Louis.

Prizes for the evening were won by Jan Noland and Betty Beck.

Others attending were Mrs. Kathy Welch, and guests Kara Welch, Lynn and Karen Yehling and Curtis Noland.

Roundtable meet of cub packs

God and Country was the theme for cub scouts and the Webelos studied craftsman at the monthly Roundtable meeting held at Coolidge Junior High School.

A card game spelling America was led by Alan Charbonnier, cubmaster of Pack 96, as the opening ceremony, followed by prayer given by Pauline Perkins, roundtable commissar. Barbara Varadin, cubmaster of Pack 19, led the holiday song. Pack 46 of Nameoki School were in charge of the craft sessions which included making pine cone Santas and Santa Claus door knob covers, under the direction of Jane Isenbarg and Sandy Dawson.

Vicki Hugert and Carol Hull of Pack 24 led cub scouts in a skit entitled "Den Mothers Needed." Those participating were Dion and Steve Hull, John Hugert and Mike and Howard Lynch.

and "unwrap gifts." The next segment featured Charles Buford who explained the Webelos theme and Ron Luebben who spoke on the God and Country religious award. All present took part in decorating a Christmas tree with homemade ornaments and wrapping gifts donated by local merchants.

Jim Colp, cubmaster of Pack 22 was in charge of the closing ceremony. It was announced the next months theme will be "2000 AD" and the meeting will also feature a pinewood derby race by adults with trophies to be awarded to the winners.

Prohardt School will have the opening ceremony, and Jean Francis of Pack 22 will furnish the ribbons and closing. A pow wow and catered luncheon is scheduled for March 24 for committees on ceramics and crafts, it was noted.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD Thurs., Nov. 30, 1978 Page 19

Area Girl Scout leaders attend national meeting

Mrs. Leo Schank and Mrs. Derwood Bono of Granite City were among the area wide delegates who attended the 41st National Council meeting of Girl Scouts held in Denver.

Other delegates representing River Bluffs Girl Scout Council included Mrs. Jane Voland and Mrs. William Howard Davis. Belleville, Mrs. Paul Lacke, Godfrey, Mrs. Philip Gehrig, East Alton, Roland Perry, Belleville, Mrs. Paul Ritzel, Valmeyer and Mrs. Margene Jerrold, Glen Carbon.

Highlights of the meeting included an increase in national membership dues from $2 per year to $3. The proposal did pass after much discussion and debate. The greatest cause for a needed increase was inflation. Most delegates did not want to see an increased national dues but understood that to maintain a strong national organization it was a necessity. River Bluffs Girl Scout Council will not be affected by this change immediately since it takes effect on September 1, 1979, it was announced.

Only one proposal failed. It proposed that local and not national offices maintain names and addresses of girl members. Other proposals that passed were: A new classification of Council charter known as the continuing charter; the elimination of associate membership for girls and adults; the adoption of a triennial cycle of national meetings to include president's and executive directors' meetings, program conferences and national council sessions; the national board of directors will consist of 51 elected members. One of the most exciting parts of the council meeting dealt with the change in our trefol and the planned television spot announcements sharing the current Girl Scout program.

Mrs. Orville Freeman was elected new National President, according to council officers.

Dinner meeting of Handicraft Club

The handicraft Club were guests of Mrs. Sue Perdicaris, 2155 E. 24th St., at a dinner meeting held in her home, last week.

The members agreed to host a Christmas party on Dec. 14 and names were drawn for a holiday gift exchange. Those attending were Mesdames Katherine Fedora, Frances Vivod, Gladys Skushish, Alexandra Severine. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Fedora and Mrs. Skushish. Mrs. Severine invited the group to meet in her home in January.

Sr. Citizens attend dinners

Granite City Township Senior Citizens were entertained at various Thanksgiving events held at the Township Hall, last week.

A nutrition Thanksgiving dinner was served one afternoon to 130 people at tables decorated by Emerson School Brownie Troop #41.

The scouts made praying hands in construction paper with a cup of candy centered in each creation and they also donated a fruit basket which was won by Martin Schulte.

The Eagles Aerie 1126 served a dinner on Thanksgiving day to 90 senior citizens at the Eagles hall, according to the president of the Senior Citizen Council.

'WAYWARD SAINTS'

ON DEC. 7, 8 AND 9

Performances of the student production, "A Company of Wayward Saints," will be presented in the Communications Building theater at SIUE Dec. 7, 8 and 9 at 8:15 p.m. and Dec. 10 at 2:30 p.m.

It is a comedy of serious nature, according to William Villauer, chairman of the department of theater and dance.

The medium the playwright uses to portray his serious theme is the "commedia del arte." Commedia is an old style of comedy originating in Italy. As it was originally performed, certain stock characters impersonated plays around a sketchy plot line.

Romans 14:17 ... "For the kingdom of God is not meat and drink; but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost."

How often the riches of a full and satisfying life are missed because we seek earthly treasures. It is not wrong to pursue a good living. As a matter of fact, business is sin in the sight of God. But we cannot put God aside as we strive to enjoy the "good life."

God's kingdom is not found in material possessions, but in righteousness! The only standard for right living is found in the Bible. Pattern your life after God's plan and you will be righteous.

In doing this, you may have peace and joy also. Imagine for yourself ... peace! Contentment! Rest! Ease of mind and heart! This automatically insures joy! Happiness! Bliss! This is the kingdom of God. Possess it. Today.

The group met in the home of Julie Donley, 2329 Arnold Drive, during the weekend.

President Monica McAmish opened the meeting and each one answered the roll call with the name of trees to decorate for the Christmas season.

After the business session they took a nature hike and returned for refreshments served by Mrs. Judy Donley.

Others present were Johnny Crenshaw, Stacy Stawar, Nancy Griffith, Jill Donley, Miss McAmish and club advisor, Mrs. Clara Winter.

The club rule party will be hosted by Nancy Griffith, it was announced.

The interesting thing about interest rates is this... We pay more.

That's right—we pay you more interest on your savings than any bank in the area. Or in the entire country, for that matter.

The reason? The federal government does not allow banks to pay you the same high rates of interest you can earn at Madison County Federal. It's just that simple. And here are the figures to prove it:

Term/Plan	Minimum	Rate
Passbook	$ 10	5 1/4 %
One Year	$ 3,000	6 1/2 %
30 Months	$ 3,000	6 3/4 %
Four Years	$ 5,000	7 1/2 %
Six Years	$10,000	7 3/4 %
Eight Years	$10,000	8 %

Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early certificate withdrawal.

If you're saving at a bank, you're earning less on any of the above terms. If you want to do something about it—come see us. We'll make sure you get everything that's coming to you.

Tom Thebeau is guest speaker

Tom Thebeau, a State Farm Insurance Agency representative, spoke at the November meeting of the Madison Chapter of Future Secretaries Association.

President Tammy Lynn opened the session and reports were given by Donna Crook and Debbie Sutt. Who noted letters of appreciation was sent to Miss Myra Jennings, guest speaker in October.

Vice-president, Cheryl Finch introduced the speaker for the day, who had several points to make about the fact that the size of the office has a lot to do with the type of skills needed by the secretary, but he felt that the best skills one could acquire would be of little value without a good personality. He also stated that personality development has to come mainly from the individual. He also stated that self-discipline should be practiced by the secretary. A considerable amount of Thebeau's speech had to do with the secretary's attitude.

He pointed out that your boss can assign responsibility but cannot assign authority to the secretary in matters relating to legal matters. He is still responsible for these decisions whoever makes them, therefore the secretary must be careful not to assume more authority than she should. If she has any doubts as to the range in which she can act, she should ask questions.

Thebeau closed his remarks by saying that he, a graduate of Madison High, wasted many opportunities to learn in high school and has had to overcome most of them through hard work and long hours. He made it clear, that it is possible to have fun as a high school student and still do the work needed in acquiring your much needed skills.

Mrs. Sally Gracey from the Tri City Chapter of NSA was in attendance at the meeting.

Amended nuclear structure opposed

Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott says he is pleased with the decision of United Steelworkers Local 1010 to join the attorney general's office and other organizations in opposing the proposal of the Northern Indiana Public Service Company (NIPSCO) to amend its construction program at the Bailey nuclear power plant site in Northwest Indiana.

The plant, if built, would be located on property adjacent to the Indiana Dunes National Lake Shore, a summer resort for the people of Chicago.

The plant is located next to a large Bethlehem Steel facility and near several other large steelworks, including the main plants for Inland Steel and United States Steel.

Scott opposed the NIPSCO concept of using a "short piling" approach to the construction, rather than a previously approved "bedrock piling" system.

Under the "bedrock" or "long piling" construction, the foundation for the proposed nuclear facility would have to be established at, or immediately above, the bedrock of the construction site. The "short piling" approach would foundation at a depth 100 feet above bedrock.

The change is significant, Scott feels, and could present unwarranted hazards. He has petitioned the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to withhold permission to NIPSCO to implement the change, and to hold public hearings on the matter.

Scott feels the modification presents unresolved safety questions and as such, warrants more consideration to adequately protect the public. The union has agreed with Scott's concerns and last week asked the NRC to be able to intervene in the case, based on the same reasons outlined by Scott in his Nov. 1, 1978, petition to the commission.

Other organizations which have joined in Scott's petition are: Porter County Chapter of the Izaak Walton League of America; Concerned Citizens Against Bailey Nuclear Site; Businessmen for the Public Interest; Lake Michigan Federation, and City of Gary, Ind.

'Winterizing' roses

By WAYNE B. SIEFFERT
Area Horticulture Adviser
Winter mulching of roses is a necessary part of rose care if you expect top performance from roses.

Recent studies show that mulching is still viable, but some methods are better than others. Mounded soil around the crown and graft of rose bushes is being replaced as the standard strategy for winter care of roses. Comparison of different methods of winterizing roses showed that wind protection was the vital factor.

If leaves, loosely piled boughs, straw, aged sawdust, wood chips or rose leaves are properly used, roses survived better than those mulched with soil. Even though mounded soil provided wind protection, high moisture and relatively warm temperatures encouraged spread of canker and other diseases.

The combination of a small mound of soil around the graft topped off with a dry material combines the best of both methods.

Instead of mounds of soil that protected 6 to 8 inches of canes above the graft, just create a 3 to 4 inch mound of soil to protect the grafted portion of each rose.

Then mulch the entire area to provide wind protection. Several inches of dry leaves or wood chips are ideal. A loose arrangement of evergreen boughs to create a loose bushy pile will provide a windbreak as well as catch leaves, and blowing snow.

Rose cones are effective as a windbreak if they are properly vented. They should not be placed over your roses until the soil begins to freeze, and should be removed by the first of March.

Under these conditions, the rose cones provide protection during the coldest weather and avoid the problem that occur when bright sunshine causes the rose cones to heat up.

You can streamline the procedure by pruning back the rose canes to 12 to 15 inches and tying the canes together at the top.

A proposal that Madison County governmental office workers agreed to reduce their lunch hours to one-half hour in return for a 13 percent increase in wages is to be studied this week.

Pack 103 recalls 'First Thanksgiving'

"The First Thanksgiving" was the theme of a play performed last week by members of Cub Pack 103 at their November meeting at St. Margaret Mary School. Stage props for the production were constructed by the Cub Scouts and the performers were Jeff Fedora, Billy Cauble, Danny Miller, Joey Edwards, Scott Strack and Matt Coury. Den leaders Mrs. Strack and Mrs. Edwards directed the playlet.

Other entertainment was by the Webelos, who sang "If You're Happy and You Know It."

The meeting opened with a flag ceremony by Den One cubs and an awards ceremony.

Cubmaster Clifford Edwards awarded a gold arrow point, wolf badge and one bead to Joey Edwards and Scott Strack. Larry Beyer, assistant cubmaster, presented achievement awards to the Webelos, including:

Tony Zikovich, recruiter badge and athlete pin; Greg Barnett, Webelos colors and athlete pin; Larry Beyer Jr., Tom Sturdevant, Timmy Tegal, Danny Habermehl, George McLaren and Joey Mangiaracino, athlete and citizen pins; Jimmy Chomko, Scott Ebner, Phillip Valencia, Mike Loyet and Larry Petras, athlete pins.

Guests at the meeting included: Mr. and Mrs. Larry Beyer Sr., Nina and Jackie, Mrs. Stella Tegal and family, Miller and Tammy Jo, Ron Lubben, Rosa Zikovich, Mrs. Barnett and Mary Chris, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mangiaracino and Gina, Mrs. Jean Petras, Mickey Strack and Jimmy and Suzanne, Marian Coury and Lisa, Joe and Evelyn Fedora, Mary Cauble and Matt and Steffie, Rev. 1,125 veterans at area college

Veteran enrollment at Belleville Area College is up four percent over last fall. According to Veterans Services Director Mike Tharp, the increase is probably unequalled in the state's higher education system.

"I am not aware of any other college or university in the state that had an increase in the number of veterans in its student body this year," Tharp said. "Most have had substantial decreases in the number of veterans enrolled as a result of the expiration of G.I. Bill benefits."

Tharp cited 1,125 veterans enrolled at BAC this fall, compared to 1,080 last fall. He noted, however, that although headcount enrollment is up, not as many credit hours are being taken. That same pattern holds true for the college as a whole.

Headcount enrollment at BAC is up this semester 14 percent but the number of credit hours is about the same as last fall.

Veterans Representative Ken Fish, assigned by the Veterans Administration to Belleville Area College, says, "The BAC is one of the highest in the nation."

"These men and women are serious students who are taking specific courses to obtain specific skills." Fish continued, "We have one of the finest veterans' counseling services at BAC, and our veterans know what they are here for. I don't anticipate a great decline in the number of veterans in this institution for two or three more years."

Vietnam era veterans are the last to be granted G.I. Bill benefits. Most benefits expire ten years after the date of separation from the service.

Fish points out, however, that the Illinois veterans' scholarship will pay tuition and fees for students who do not any longer qualify or who never qualified for the G.I. Bill, if they left for the service from Illinois and returned to the state within six months after separation.

He encourages all veterans and their dependents to contact either Tharp or him to learn what potential assistance they may have for education from the Veterans Administration or state or federal programs.

No appointment is needed to visit the Veterans' Service Office at the college.

Grants for education statistics

The State Board of Education has received two grants totaling $95,569 from the National Center for Education Statistics.

A $33,094 grant was awarded for improving long-term capabilities in collecting, processing, analyzing and reporting education statistical data.

It will enable the Illinois Office of Education to design and implement an improved accounting system in the area of finance, staff and curriculum, as well as develop local school district profiles for planning. Only seven other states received such grants.

According to State Superintendent Joseph M. Cronin, "the grant will bring about improvements in our statistical capabilities and reduce the data burden. It will also help us improve the quality and timeliness of education data."

Illinois was the only state to receive a grant — for $42,465 — to develop an information system for use by teachers and school districts during collective bargaining negotiations.

The system will allow for developing an information network to be shared by both teacher groups and school boards during negotiations.

No logic in St. Louis County blocking bus subsidy funds

There is valid concern over unfairness in the Bi-State transit fare increase — 25 to 40 cents, except in the city of St. Louis — but St. Louis County Supervisor Gene McNary is going to an extreme in calling Tuesday for a complete curtailment of county transportation sales taxes to the bus system.

Illinois gets only minimal bus service and has contributed to the overall Bi-State financial structure in the form of a yearly subsidy from the state legislature. It has not reneged in this regard, and thus should not be singled out for punishment.

Most of the bus lines are in St. Louis-St. Louis County.

Both the city and county help subsidize the transit system through a half-cent sales tax, but in both instances the governmental bodies have nibbled away at the revenue and only forwarded a portion to Bi-State.

The latter agency is projecting a $5 million deficit in its $65 million program for the fiscal year ending in July 1, and says it has no alternative other than higher fares.

How to curb non-conformist cults if they become abusive?

Press-Record Bureau — The horror of the last hours of the Jonestown settlement staggers the imagination. The cold-blooded murder of an American congressman, three newsmen and a fleeing settler at the Kaituma airstrip was shocking enough. The mass slaughter that followed, an orgy of murder and suicide, stretches the limits of rational understanding.

Jonestown ended like a grisly mirror of Auschwitz. What presided itself as a bonafide if bizarre religious movement led to the death of more than 900 men, women and children.

Hindights brings the inevitable questions: Who is responsible for this massacre? Can it be blamed entirely on Jim Jones, the Christian preacher from Indiana who led his People's Temple down paths growing ever more bizarre? At some point as his sect lost its anchor, could the law have intervened to prevent the tragedy in Guyana?

Whatever his beginnings as a minister and social activist with considerable credibility, Jones became a cult leader who was not only skilled in manipulating his people but equally adroit in convincing outsiders that his flock was held together only by a spirit of benevolence.

Stories had circulated for two years that Jim Jones' Jonestown was actually a strange mixture of socialist commune and concentration camp. The stories apparently were true.

It can be argued that the U.S. State Department or the Guyanese government did not probe deeply enough into what was going on at Jonestown. The resources to do so in a country like Guyana are limited, however.

Jones had convinced visitors that there were no weapons in the settlement. It would have been hard to anticipate the

Sanitary Board member frustrated over spending pattern

"I asked not to be reappointed because I tried to cut costs and auto expenses and no one would listen," Leonard A. Hylla of Madison County expressed his frustration in a pending departure from the Metro-East Sanitary District board. It is unfortunate that his services will be lost to the district, and that some of the reforms he sought to carry out have been thwarted.

Impudent spending has been a problem

Even the good news about inflation isn't very reassuring

How much monetary inflation has occurred? Well, it depends on where you start counting. But the Consumer Price Index — using 1967 as a base period as it is an important indicator and it shows a doubling of prices: October prices reached 200.9, topping the 200 index for the first time.

The bad news is that that fuel is up 120 percent, food 116 percent and housing 109 percent. The good news is that, in the party's 11 years, medical care costs have climbed "only" 89 percent and clothing 63 percent.

Many infants available for adoption

The Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society has many infants available for adoption, according to Brenda Ervin, caseworker for the agency.

Mark, a healthy baby born in May, is one of many infants available for adoption.

He is now being cared for in a foster home, but is looking for a permanent family, the caseworker said.

His foster parents say Mark is a happy, bright and responsive baby. He is teething and likes to be "back-packed" through stores. He also likes to look in a mirror and talk to himself, they said.

Persons interested in becoming foster parents or adoptive parents may attend a public open house at the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society of Illinois, 1002 College Ave., Alton, from 2 to 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 13.

The next day, Dec. 14, an adoption information meeting sponsored by the agency will be conducted at 7 p.m. at the Venice Recreation Center, 323

Broadway, Venice.

Persons throughout Madison, Jersey and St. Clair counties interested in becoming adoptive parents will learn about adopting children with special needs, a spokesman said.

Any child who is not a healthy white infant is considered a child with a special need for a permanent family, said Judy A. Hall, regional director of the agency.

Interested persons may call Brenda Ervin, 462-2714 or 462-1390, for additional information.

Economic ups and downs ahead

The aging business expansion, already over 3½ years old, will continue for at least several months. But an 8½ percent annual inflation rate and tightening monetary policy will contribute to a modest economic downturn in the latter half of next year, according to Prudential Insurance Company's 1979 annual economic forecast.

The report, prepared by Dr. J. Robert Ferrari, Prudential's vice president and chief economist, and Dr. James L. Essig, vice president, economic research, predicts real growth of two percent, a drop from the four percent recorded in 1978.

The 1979 Gross National Product is expected to reach $2,222 billion while unemployment rises one-half of a percentage point, to a 6½ percent annual average.

Acknowledging inflation as "the key to the economic outlook in 1979," the forecasters anticipate immediate and significant price rises in the food and energy areas.

They are more concerned, however, by the other fundamental forces — the massive federal budget deficit, an upsurge in money supply, sharply rising unit labor costs, and the depressed dollar abroad — all of which, they say, continue to fuel inflation and make the road to reducing price pressures "lengthy and tedious."

Some temporary benefits are foreseen stemming from the Carter Administration's "Phase II" program of voluntary wage and price standards, "but ultimate success in controlling inflation will require significant federal budget deficit trimming."

The forecast concludes that the Federal Reserve Board will bear the brunt of the anti-inflation effort, even though monetary restraint, combined with the slowing economy, "poses the threat that such tightening, as in the past, may well tip the balance toward a 1979 recession."

The economists are encouraged by the broad spectrum of Americans "who have called for tax reduction, fiscal discipline and limits on the reach of government."

"Policy actions consistent with this changing public mood should contribute to a general lowering of inflation expectations," it is asserted.

An inflation-induced erosion of purchasing power and a heavy debt repayment burden will contribute to a slowing in consumer spending in 1979, according to Prudential.

Personal expenditures on goods and services will climb 10 percent to $1,489 billion, down slightly from the 10½ percent increase in 1978.

The growth of household debt, which has easily surpassed gains in after-tax personal income over the past two years, must "sooner or later" force a slowing in spending and borrowing, according to the forecasters.

Consumer durables spending will experience the sharpest slowdown, with auto sales dropping to 10.4 million units from 11.2 million this year. Nondurables and services will account for a higher proportion of consumer outlays.

Americans will spend $110 billion on housing next year, that figure represents only a 2½ percent increase, in contrast with the 16½ percent jump recorded in 1978.

The forecasts point to the prospect of still higher mortgage rates and reduced availability of financing and contends that prospective homebuyers at some point "will resist the soaring housing prices and carrying costs."

Housing starts are pegged at about 1.7 million units in 1979, down from 2 million in 1978, with the decline mainly in the 1-4 family sector.

Multi-unit construction is in a firmer position, the forecast says, since investors and builders have been buoyed by rising rents and relatively low vacancies.

On the business front, capital spending should ride well into next year on momentum gathered from the large backlog of uncompleted projects.

However, the forecast sees business confidence shaken by uncertainties associated with accelerating inflation, the expected slowdown in consumer spending and housing, and "worries about the drift toward wage-price controls."

Plant and equipment outlays will increase 12 percent to $247.5 billion, a slip from the 16 percent gain of 1978.

Nonetheless, the report anticipates that real spending by business will rise 3½ percent, well above the predicted national real growth of two percent.

Inventory investment will drop $1 billion from the 1978 figure of $18.5 billion, as cautious inventory managers are expected to require significant accumulation at the first sign of a slowdown in sales.

The volatile inventory picture is further complicated by the possibilities of truckers' and automobile workers' strikes during the coming year.

General government spending will rise 10½ percent to $170.5 billion in 1979, following a 12½ percent hike this year. That prediction is based on "higher defense spending" and "some weakening in budget deficit cutting resolve" caused by sagging economic output and rising unemployment.

The forecasters point out that transfer payments, such as unemployment insurance, welfare and Social Security, are not included in the federal spending component of GNP, and have "escaped relatively unscathed from budget-cutting to date."

State and local government spending will climb 11½ percent to $113 billion next year, versus a 12½ percent gain in 1978. Spending cuts in this sector are being enforced by a "veritable tax rebellion" in several areas.

The gradual elimination of budget surplus positions, and declining federal aid, the report maintains.

The 1978 deficit of $11 billion in foreign trade in goods and services will be cut in half in 1979, as the economic slowdown limits imports, while exports benefit from improving business payments in several major trading partners.

Among the factors expected to limit next year's trade gains are, the forecast says, adverse developments in the petroleum sector, including a new OPEC oil-price hike, and a boom possibly as high as 10 percent.

Tax was unfair, badly administered

To the Editor:
In your editorial of Nov. 20, you indicated disappointment in the failure of the recent election proposal to extend corporate personal property taxes.

Granted that the loss of this revenue will create problems of funding to some taxing bodies, but you must remember that our legislators have had over eight years in which to think about replacement revenues.

Their failure to act during this period of time is the only reason for the current dilemma of which you write.

Abolition of the corporate personal property tax is in reality a god-send for the small businessman and his corporation.

This has been perhaps the most unfair, most unevenly administered tax in the history of the state.

The tax has been subject to pressures, manipulations, evasions, and fosters disrespect for the system.

There is no relationship between the way the tax falls on a business and the profits that business makes — falling most heavily on retailers who have to maintain high dollar inventories, or manufacturers and businesses which require a good deal of machinery.

expensive, sophisticated equipment in order to operate.

How is it justified that one automobile dealer is taxed on his inventory while another pays no tax whatsoever?

On the state level, collection of the personal property tax as it now stands averages only 70 percent of billings and in some areas, particularly upstate, it is as low as 51 percent of billings.

Any replacement tax would certainly be administered more equitably and be easier and less expensive to assess and collect.

It is my opinion that any replacement tax would be an improvement over that which we had in the past.

effectively with other states in attracting and keeping businesses has been greatly enhanced by the elimination of this regressive tax.

In recent years, 33 states have either reduced or eliminated the personal property tax on businesses.

If the same direction could be followed with regard to workmen's compensation laws, corporations — attracted by a new, better business climate — would provide Illinois with revenues which would go a long way toward solving what you refer to as the "dilemma" which was mandated by popular vote in the recent referendum.

H. J. "MAT" MATSON

Non-elected agencies seizing power

To the Editor:
Over 150 people from throughout Illinois, including Rockford, Peoria, Danville and Havana, attended the hearing on Sept. 26 at the SIUE University Center conducted by the Illinois General Assembly's Joint Committee on Regional Government, beginning at 10 in the morning and extending into the early evening.

Mr. Munson of LaSalle County commented, "County government is badly in need of revitalizing."

He added, from extensive background experience in local and regional government, that "county departments have our legislature tied; rules of code become law."

"It took two years' time and 18 permits to start a building in one instance; counties are supposed to supply a sewer, and some are not doing it."

Mr. Munson took exception to a comment by a representative of a regional planning agency "who referred to himself as a unit of local government appointed by local county boards."

Mr. Edwin Drapka of Brookfield, representing several northern Illinois grassroots organizations, catalogued encroachments on individual and community sovereignty with documentation of 11 classes.

He added, "EPA is using — and, in fact, permitting — a bureaucratic entity. We found the EPA to be non-cooperative."

Father Gierul of Bunker Hill and Wilsonville commented concerning Wilsonville's recent experiences with a bureaucratic entity. "We found the EPA to be non-cooperative."

Wall Street Journal — One of the places where liberal can did badly in the recent elections was Minnesota, home state of Vice President Walter Mondale.

Afterward, the Vice President explained why his efforts to lead the liberals had failed with the voters: "I must have told them to do it for Hubert Humphrey and me, but to do it for themselves."

That idea is becoming a staple of liberal commentary on the election results and the general climate that produced them.

After some years of relative generosity, we're told, people have been persuaded to start practicing a politics of intolerance and narrow self-interest.

Washington Monthly magazine has taken the trend "the politics of selfishness."

There's a whole range of particulars that are critical or another has included in the bill of indictment.

The Proposition 13 movement, for example, is seen not as a predictable reaction to soaring property tax assessments but as mean-spirited stinginess.

Demands for reduction in government waste are interpreted as an attack on the poor.

The liberal critics profess to see the signs of the growing power of money and greed.

They complain that rich men are unabashedly spending their own money to run for public office.

And business-supported political action committees are using the public discontent with government to roll back public regulation of corporate conduct.

Even more disturbing, they say, the force of all this money is being magnified by the crazed moral fervor of single-issue voters on questions like abortion and gun control.

Economic selfishness has been joined by the uglier selfishness of cultural intolerance.

The plainest part of this complaint is the part that says the middle class has selfishly turned its back on the needy poor. This charge is rather bizarre.

As Senator Gary Hart has summarized the situation, federal transfer payments over the past eight years have actually grown twice as fast as federal spending on goods and services.

In the past five years, Medicare spending has increased by 37 percent annually, Medicaid by 25 percent annually and Social Security by 20 percent annually.

The war on poverty is substantially won, though you wouldn't know it from Census Bureau statistics which refuse to take account of the many in-kind services available today to people with low cash incomes.

So when voters start saying situation to seize power."

Joe Lucio of Edwardsville, a coal miner's son, product of a country school and member of the hearing committee, commented from a background in education, including history teaching, that "regional government could lead to so much of everything that we don't want more budget, more bureaucracy."

"There's too many cartels, consolidations including schools, and too many combined, including branch banking."

"We've gotten too big. Regionalism leads to an erroneous conclusion that small schools can't provide good education."

"It took two years' time and 18 permits to start a building in one instance; counties are supposed to supply a sewer, and some are not doing it."

"We're starting at the wrong end of the spectrum, from the top down instead of the bottom up. Everyone is represented in Springfield except the people."

Lucio believes in "control of federal and state government, not local," and the neighborhood concept of schools. He added, "This nation was built on personal initiative, not expert planners."

Experts can determine their own needs better than remote experts.

Father Gierul of Bunker Hill and Wilsonville commented concerning Wilsonville's recent experiences with a bureaucratic entity. "We found the EPA to be non-cooperative."

Chairman George "Ray" Hudson of Hinsdale, "Chuck" Campbell of the 3rd District and LaSalle conducted the hearing. Other members of a committee of 12 were absent.

About five or six representatives of regional planning met to support regionalism while about 25 made presentations opposing regionalism as unnecessary, burdensome and a threat to our better traditions.

Betrothals and wedding plans of area couples

MISS CAROL ANN LUER whose betrothal to Paul C. Heaton is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Luer, 23 Lou Juan Hills, Edwardsville, formerly of Granite City. An early spring wedding is planned.

Carol Ann Luer is betrothed

The engagement of Miss Carol Ann Luer and Paul C. Heaton, 1888 Vucerst Lane, St. Louis, is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Luer, 23 Lou Juan Hills, Edwardsville, formerly of Granite City.

Parents of the groom-elect, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Heaton, reside at 5226 Pineale Court, St. Louis.

Locke said the shelter installation program is scheduled to begin by January, with completion next summer. The Bi-State Board of Commissioners has authorized the awarding of a $2,153,886 contract to Midwest Architectural Metals, Inc., of Ohio, the low bidder on the project. Eighty percent, or $1,723,109 of the total cost, is being funded by the federal government under three previously approved capital grants.

As part of its successful bid, Midwest Architectural Metals indicated plans to include 23 percent minority participation in the shelter program. Bi-State is providing the required 20 percent ($430,777) local funding. Federal requirements specify that all funds from these grants be used for the passenger shelter program. The new shelters will supplement those already in place throughout the region and will be scratch-resistant and vandal-proof. Smoked, glass-like panels are expected to make this possible. An added feature of each new shelter will be an area on the side of the aluminum bench for wheelchair. The first of the new-style passenger shelters was installed in St. Louis on the corner of Eighth and Olive streets, at the east end of the old post office. St. Louis will have 305 of the shelters, another 155 are to be erected in St. Louis County, 45 are planned for East St. Louis, and the remaining 40 are scheduled for construction in various Illinois communities.

Annual Christmas arts and crafts fair

The craft shop at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will hold its annual Christmas arts and crafts fair Dec. 7, 8 and 9.

Edward Carty (692-2178), coordinator, said artisans from many areas of the Midwest will be on hand to demonstrate and exhibit their works in the Goshen Lounge of the University Center.

Handcrafted items in the fair will include: pottery, leatherworks, silver items, feather jewelry, wooden wall hangings, toys, woodcarvings, creative dough art, patchwork items, paintings, Christmas ornaments, photographic art, weaving, glass work, knitted and crocheted goods, and many other varieties of handmade articles.

Visitors will get a first-hand look at jewelry making, glass blowing, pottery making, and spinning and weaving processes.

The fair will remain open between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. each day for the convenience of last-minute shoppers who wish to give unusual and creative Christmas gifts, he said.

The craft shop coordinator said plans are under way to offer classes in many of the arts and crafts during the spring quarter so that area residents can learn a handicraft.

The fair is free and open to the public.

Some changes coming in your telephone rates and services.

The Illinois Commerce Commission has rejected our request for revenue increases, even though our request was lowered to meet President Carter's inflation control standards. The Commission said that Illinois Bell productivity increases and good management were factors contributing to its decision that additional revenues were not needed.

That's nice to hear. But we needed the dollars to keep bringing our customers the high quality telephone service they need, expect and have come to rely on. The rates were designed so that those customers incurring the costs would be the ones who paid for them.

You can be sure we'll continue to do our best.

Some changes in rates and services were authorized by the Illinois Commerce Commission. They are:

Directory Assistance Charging

Beginning in January, 1979, there will be a two-year trial of a local Directory Assistance charging plan.

Here's how it works

- Residence and small business customers will be limited to eight calls to local Directory Assistance each monthly billing period per telephone line without being charged. You can request one number per call. Calls over eight will be 20¢ each.
- You will receive a 25¢ monthly credit per line on your telephone bill.

There is no charge for these Directory Assistance calls

- Physically handicapped customers who cannot use the directory can become exempt from the charge by obtaining and completing a special form available from their service representative.
- Calls placed from coin telephones, hospitals, hotels and motels will not be charged.
- There will be no charge for calls to Directory Assistance outside your area code.

PBX, Centrex differ

The plan differs slightly for large business customers. Private Branch Exchange (PBX) customers will be limited to eight calls at no charge for each PBX trunk and will not receive the monthly credit. Centrex customers will be limited to two calls at no charge for each main terminal and will not receive the monthly credit.

Business rates change in Southwest

Effective December 2, 1978, rates change for business customers located in Southwest Illinois with 1-Party or Private Branch Exchange (PBX) service and some rates increase for semi-public coin telephones. Also, the rural surcharge is reduced to $1.50. Here are the details.

Measured rates are standardized, unit charges are reduced
A new Measured-75 service replaces the previous measured plan for businesses in Belleville, East St. Louis, Edgmont and Granite City. The new plan includes 75 message units and costs $10.25 a month for each line or PBX trunk. All units over 75 are billed separately and the charge for additional message units is reduced from 6¢ per unit to 5¢.

Local Area Service rates are modified

These rates are changed to be in line with other business local area rates within the state. See the box below for a comparison of old and new rates.

	Local Service business rates by town		PBX
	1-Party business old rates	new rates	old rates	new rates
Belleville	$16.00	$15.35	$25.75	$26.85
E. St. Louis	17.75	16.35	28.35	28.60
Edgmont	17.75	16.35	28.35	28.60
Freeburg	14.00	14.35	21.25	25.10

Changes in operator-handled calls within Illinois

The rates for operator-handled calls within Illinois change. Effective December 2, 1978, the rate for operator-handled long distance calls will be the same as for direct-dialed calls—a two-minute initial period, evening and weekend discounts. A surcharge then is added to this rate for handling.

- These operator-handled surcharges are:
- 30¢ for station-to-station credit card calls;
 - 50¢ for collect, third-number and other operator-handled station calls;
 - $1 for person-to-person calls.
- These operator-handled surcharges also apply to local calls. Rates for many direct-dialed long distance calls within Illinois are decreased.

Other changes effective December 2, 1978

- You are charged 50¢ to have a call interrupted. There is no charge if you ask the operator to verify that there is conversation on the line.
 - The rate for Measured-65 is reduced to $6.10 a month. This phone plan is available to residence customers in nearby Chicago suburbs.
 - The structure of Wide Area Telecommunications Service (WATS) changes. Business customers who have this service will receive details with their phone bills.
- All rates quoted are before taxes.

Holiday boxes from Father Christmas

By TOMMYE WALTER

A Nigerian Christmas doesn't include a tree, but there is plenty of eating, drinking and dancing along with exchanges of gifts and shooting off of firecrackers.

Benjamin Osianya, a graduate SIUE student, says Father Christmas takes the place of the American Santa Claus in his native country.

"You will find him at the large department stores in the cities, handing out candies and badges with Christmas greetings on them," Osianya said.

"Children can have their photographs made sitting on his lap just as they do in this country."

"Nigerian children receive their gifts on Dec. 25, but adults exchange theirs the following day. That is Boxing Day, or the day that gifts in boxes are delivered to one another."

While the gifts may be any number of items, one of the most unusual boxed gifts is a dinner.

"If you have an interest in your neighbors, you prepare them a dinner. Instead of inviting them to come to your home to eat, you put it into a small box and have it delivered to their house by a trusted member of the family," the student said.

During the two-day holiday celebration, the women are too busy with other responsibilities to cook meals. The gift of food is a welcome gift, he said.

How does this work out when the neighbor has a large family and the donor is poor?

"You can send three plates, four plates, or plates for as many family members as you can. If you are unable to send enough for everyone, you send a plate for the husband and wife. They share their food with the kids."

"The practice of observing Boxing Day has been adapted by the Nigerians through early English influence in our country. The feast of St. Stephen and Boxing Day has been observed in England since medieval times. It was on this day that priests used to distribute the contents from alms-boxes to the poor of the parish."

"In Nigeria on the evening of Dec. 26, social groups hire orchestras to play, and there is dancing in the streets. Nobody needs an invitation; they just wander from street to street, enjoying the entertainment as they go."

"Father Christmas isn't the only gentleman who comes around during the holidays. From the first day of December, the radio broadcast the coming of Shango."

"They announce that the Shango is due to arrive at a certain place on a certain day," Osianya said. "People are warned not to aggravate him, for he has the power to do or undo things."

"When the Shango appears, he is accompanied by a band of drummers and women dressed in the same type of masquerade dress. They will be singing to him and he will be dancing."

The student said many people in his country believe the Shango has the power to drive out all the evil things coming up in the new year. He is also able to heal the sick.

Those requiring his services must pay according to their capabilities. The payment may range from a handful of kola nuts to large sums of money, Osianya said.

Kola nuts are plentiful in Nigeria and offer no strain on the person who has to pay them. The Shango is by no means alone in the holiday parades. The streets are filled with masqueraders representing all segments of society.

"Those who belong to any cult proclaiming to have power are out displaying it," Osianya said.

The international student has been in this country for seven years, having earned his undergraduate degree in business at SIUE last spring. He hopes to complete the requirements toward a master's degree in business administration before long.

Since coming to America, Osianya and his wife have become Americanized in observing Christmas. There is a lighted fir tree in the living room for their six children, and gifts are exchanged on Dec. 25.

However, there are moments when he remembers Christmas as it is observed back home. "When it comes right down to enjoying myself, I remember all the things my father taught me," Osianya concludes.

GC Park Board holds fast session

An abbreviated meeting of the Granite City Park Board was held here last week, with commissioners completing the business agenda in less than one hour.

Financial reports were submitted and a regular bill list was approved, with nothing outstanding in either area.

Frank Rea, board secretary, said.

The start of basketball and wrestling programs sponsored by the park district was announced by Harold Brown, superintendent.

Terry Allen at Corral Lounge

Terry Allen, a nationally-acclaimed night club performer, and his troupe will be making a stop in Granite City during their current nationwide tour. Corral Lounge, 3304 (near) Nameoki Road, will host Allen tonight through Sunday, Dec. 3. Welton Jones, entertainment editor of the San Diego Union, wrote recently, "As a single, Allen would be among the superior class of night club entertainers."

"He ranges from nostalgia, pop and Vegas soul through disco slick and musical impressions to some very presentable Broadway number."

Phil Karandjeff, manager of Corral Lounge, said that Allen is no newcomer to the entertainment scene. "Terry began in Ohio theatrical groups and has worked with such greats as Barbra Streisand, Fats Domino and Dick Clark on American Bandstand. We feel lucky to have a talent like him stopping here for an engagement."

Illinois women will meet outside state

The Illinois State National Organization for Women at its November meeting held in Springfield passed on a resolution to hold the 1979 state convention out of Illinois — by a unanimous vote of the chapter representatives in attendance.

The Illinois NOW organization is composed of 33 chapters, spread throughout the state.

The logistics task force was assigned to locate accommodations in the states surrounding Illinois that have ratified the Equal Rights Amendment, since these states would be more convenient to reach for most of the members. The state convention will be held the second quarter of 1979 and the task force will attempt to locate a university or medium-sized convention center to make the arrangements for the three-day meeting. Naomi Ross, the state president, said, "The only business that will be conducted in Illinois will be the business of ratification. Why should our organization plan a convention in a state which has not ratified the ERA?"

"We realize it will place a burden on many of our members to travel this greater distance for the convention. But until the ERA has been ratified by Illinois and two more states, for a grand total of 38, the women and men of the entire United States are being placed under an even greater burden of not having equal protection under the law."

Illinois NOW Representatives from the Metro-East Chapter are Mrs. Norma Mendoza of Granite City and Dorothy Haegle of Alton.

NEW OFFICERS FOR 1979. These new officers and directors were installed at the annual banquet of the Granite City Board of Realtors held Saturday evening at the Sunset Hills Country Club. From left, are: Herman Schroeder, president; Mrs. Chris Shields, secretary of the board, and directors Ron Cury and James Whitt. Unavailable for the picture were the new vice-president Carl Hoffman and directors Bernard Royce and Ray Kaegel.

W. German student awaiting her 2nd American-style Christmas

By BARB SLIVKA
You better watch out and you better not cry because — as Carina Paschold will tell you — "Der Weihnachtsmann" is coming to town.

A native of Friedrichshafen, West Germany, she is a pre-medical student at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. She will be spending her second "American-style Christmas" in Alton with Dr.

and Mrs. Robert Lynn. "My first American Christmas was spent with a family in Madison, Wis., when I was 16 years old," said Miss Paschold, who first came to America as an exchange student to attend high school in this country for one year.

"I think it's interesting to see how different cultures celebrate Christmas," she explained. For instance, "We do not have a Santa Claus, as we say, 'Der Weihnachtsmann,' who delivers our Christmas presents. But we don't put very much emphasis on him commercially."

"We celebrate Christmas on December 24. In our family, dinner is served at 6:30 p.m., and we open our presents afterward."

"My family always sang, and my father played the piano while we sang traditional Christmas carols. We would either go to midnight service or attend church on Christmas morning," she explained. "We don't serve anything specific, like turkey or ham is served in America," she said, "but we eat carp on New Year's Eve."

"Christmas is a kind of lazy day. We usually sleep late and eat a big dinner, and later we watch television."

"Major programs deal with the nativity and feature choral music pertinent to the season. When I was young I believed that Santa would bring our presents when I heard a bell jingle. My parents really jingled the bell as a sign that we could enter our living room, which they had closed off to hide the tree and presents from us. "We always expected to see Santa in the living room when we entered." With a smile she added, "Somehow he never was there for us to see."

Continuing, Miss Paschold said, "My parents would put the tree up a day or two before Christmas and close off the living room until it was time to open our presents."

"Candles made of beeswax decorate our trees and smell very good while they burn. And we also decorate our trees with ornaments and tinsel."

"One of the things that really 'freaked me out' when I came to this country was the use of artificial trees. In Germany, we use only real trees, either spruce or pine," explained the exchange student. "Trees stay up for about three weeks."

In Germany, children do not hang up stockings on Christmas Eve, but this tradition is observed on St. Nicholas Day, Dec. 6.

"We do make Christmas cookies, and people in Germany will sometimes put electric lights on their trees outside in their yards," she said.

Another tradition is setting a crib of the infant Jesus in the living room. She explained that the American tradition of placing nativity sets indoors and out is somewhat similar. Stores in Germany close at noon Dec. 2 and remain closed until Dec. 27 or 28. Because of extended school holidays, "Students go skiing in the Alps," she said.

"Students usually get two or three weeks off, and they vacation in the Swiss Alps because the trip only takes two hours. I used to go skiing every year, and I usually would leave Dec. 26," she recalled.

"I won't go skiing this year, as I don't like it," she said. "I'll be going to the Lynns for Christmas and I'll call my parents in Germany on Christmas Eve. The Lynns are my 'second family,' and I'm extremely lucky I'm able to stay with them."

False police report alleged

James R. Stogsdill, 27, of 2421 Edwards St., was arrested at home early this week and was charged with filing a false police report, driving while his license was suspended and improper brakes on a vehicle he was driving.

Police alleged Stogsdill was driving a taxicab which was involved in an accident Nov. 18 at Nameoki and Johnson roads, in which the taxicab struck the rear of the car of Mark Molski, 201 Lindell Blvd.

Stogsdill allegedly produced a traffic ticket from a former resident of his house as identification and was charged under that name with having improper brakes on his Dave's Taxi cab. Later police were informed the ticket used for identification was left at 2421 Edwards St., by a former resident.

That ticket was nullified and the charges were filed against Stogsdill.

County abandons Saturday court

Madison County plans to discontinue the Saturday court it has been offering, effective immediately, the county board was told last week.

The board's judiciary committee and the chief judge of the Third Judicial Circuit met and agreed the Saturday court, offered the past few months to aid those who work during the week, "has attracted only a handful of people and is not working out. We gave it our best shot," Board Member James R. Hell of Alton, told the board.

He said Saturday court will be offered again, only if there is a great demand for it by the public.

In other business the board agreed to write a letter to the Datsun automobile manufacturing firm, Japan's Nissan Co., encouraging the company to select Madison County as the site of a proposed $500 million plant, which would employ 3,000 persons.

A site near Interstate 270 and Route 3 is among four or five under consideration by the firm. The county board went on record as offering the company all possible help, should it decide to locate the plant in Madison County.

Walter "Dick" Sparks, retiring board member from Madison County, said he believes the construction of sanitary sewers through Chouteau, Nameoki and Venice townships is a primary reason Datsun is considering this area.

"I think we did right in constructing sewers and in the future, I believe this will prove one of the most beneficial things in the county," Sparks told the board.

Other board members honored Sparks at the meeting, which was the last of his elected term. Sparks and many others believe the sewer issue, which requires taxation to repay the sewer bonds, was the primary reason Sparks was unsuccessful in his bid for re-election. Board Member William B. Webb of Granite City, also a member of the sewer committee, summarized the feelings of many board members, saying, "We're going to miss you."

The board also voted to increase the monthly fee for residents of the Madison County Nursing Home from $600 to $650 per month to help offset an operating deficit, which approached $100,000 last year.

"You just can't get that kind of care anywhere for that amount of money," Board Member Herbert Milton of Granite City commented.

3 hurt on Madison

Three persons were injured when the auto of Constance Richwine, 32, Edwardsville, and Joseph Kubelka, 36, of 736 Ashland Ave., Mitchell, collided at 27th Street and Madison Avenue early this week.

Kubelka was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident after his auto allegedly struck the rear of the other car.

Constance Richwine went to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where she was admitted with back and neck injuries and a possible head injury.

Kubelka and Joseph Kubelka Jr., 9, a passenger in his car, had visible injuries, but declined to be taken to the hospital.

Alton schools to use Todoroff teaching system

Robert D. Todoroff, band director at Granite City High School North, conducted a seminar last week for the Alton music staff to implement the Todoroff system of rhythm instruction which will be adopted by the Alton school system.

The technique is an individually developed system of teaching rhythms and has been exclusively developed and used in Granite City by Todoroff, who formerly introduced the method at Conlidge Junior High School. He now is using the system in developing The Steel Marching and Concert Band.

This technique is one of the basic and fundamental reasons that makes the North High School Band members knowledgeable and productive both as a marching and a concert band, a school official said.

The system of teaching rhythms is an isolated entity through a spatial relationship. The method was devised, developed and tested as Todoroff's master's degree thesis.

At present, Todoroff is preparing a book for publication on "The Todoroff Method of Teaching Rhythms."

State 160 years old on Dec. 3

Stating that "not only can the past help us project the future" but also can encourage "preserving today's record for future generations," Gov. James R. Thompson has proclaimed Nov. 26 through Dec. 3 as Illinois History Week and Dec. 3 as Illinois Statehood Day. This Sunday, Dec. 3, 1978, will be the 160th anniversary of the date Illinois entered the Union.

To help stimulate interest in Illinois History Week, the Illinois State Historical Society is distributing ten recorded "minutes of history" to 100 radio stations throughout the state. The ten "minutes" are part of a series produced and narrated by Frank Beaman of WBBM radio, Chicago, with a grant from the Illinois Historical Society Council. The entire series was broadcast over WBBM earlier this year.

In addition, the Society will provide a copy of the governor's proclamation and a 16x24-inch poster free of charge to anyone writing to "Illinois History Week," Old State Capitol, Springfield 62706.

The state's official celebration of "Illinois Statehood Day" will take place in the Old State Capitol at Springfield, Sunday, Dec. 3, from 5 p.m. until 8 p.m.

The celebration will take the form of a candlelight tour of the building with refreshments, readings, and music from "The Abraham Lincoln Songbook" by the New Hutchinson Family Singers from the University of Illinois-Urbana-Champaign, directed by James Hurt.

The celebration, sponsored by the Illinois State Historical Library and Society and the Illinois Special Events Commission, is free and open to the public.

Teens flee house

Four teens fled from the back door of a vacant house at 3164 Aubrey Ave., as the owner, Lloyd Belcher, 3924 Mueller Ave., entered the front door at 1:25 p.m. Wednesday.

Belcher said a witness notified him that four teens, about 15 to 16 years old, had been seen climbing over the fence and entering the vacant house.

When Belcher investigated, the boys ran out the rear door and Belcher chased them, catching one boy in the 3100 block of Aubrey Avenue.

Police were called, but the boy broke free and escaped before officers arrived. The house was checked and there were indications entry had been gained several times recently through a door in which the glass had been broken.

Footprints indicated the boys climbed through the attic space to a ceiling door into the living area. Numerous footprints were found on the walls by the ceiling door.

It is not known if anything is missing.

Each was presented with a gift from Senior Regent Sara Gusewelle.

A ham dinner was served to 50 members and guests by the chapter officers, Mrs. Gusewelle, Rosella Mead, Dorothy Coy, Helen Davis and Margaret Heiser.

Mrs. Gusewelle conducted the meeting and introduced representatives of out of town chapters who joined in the anniversary celebration.

Guest included Peggy Wilhelm, Mary Ann Wilhelm and Mildred Bzassa from Collinsville Chapter 288; Mary Christian, who is also a grand council member, Pauline Reid, Valeria Blomgren and Martha Powell from Maplewood, Mo., Chapter 718; Hazel Meyer, senior regent, Adele Mensinger, Leona Jacobs, Flora Krausz and Mary Gobel from Belleville Chapter 53.

Past Regents from Granite City Chapter 247 were introduced and Mary Christian, grandcouncil member was presented from the senior regents station and given honors.

Senior Regent, Sara Gusewelle had the guides escort Dorothy Coy, a past regent and the recorder, to her station where she presented her with a corsage as a token of appreciation for assisting with the dinner.

Accepted as a new member was Aline Sensabaugh sponsored by her daughter, Cora Besserman. She will be officially enrolled at the Dec. 13 session. It was noted, which will be social service chapter night.

The chapter will also have a Christmas party and gift exchange after the business segment.

A dessert luncheon was served during the social hour and "kiddie" games and prizes were directed by Mrs. Mead and Mrs. Gusewelle.
